Lumumba Escapes Farmhouse Prison

No Reduction In American Troops Abroad

Kennedy Reverses Ike; Dependents Also to Remain

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has scrapped former President Eisenhower's policy of considering overseas troop reductions and redeployment as a step to ease the gold-dollar problem.

President Kennedy is understood to have assured Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe, there will be no shift or cutback in the numbers of American fighting men in Western Europe — or anywhere else.

Deposed Congo Premier and 2 Associates Bind Guards And Flee in Automobile

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Katanga government announced today that deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba and two political associates escaped Thursday night from a farmhouse where they had been kept prisoner west of Elisabethville.

A communique said the trio overcame and bound two sentries guarding them and fled in an auto with several rifles and enough gas to cover 60 miles.

Godefroid Munongo, the Katanga interior minister, indicated his government believed Lumumba was headed for Portuguese Angola, west of Katanga Province, although his ultimate objective presumably is Stanleyville, capital of the Congo's Oriental Province, which is controlled by troops and politicians loyal to him.

Roads blocked

The Katanga government said it had blocked all roads leading from the province.

Lumumba previously had been reported in a prison at Jadotville, 65 miles northwest of Elisabethville, to which he had been moved under heavy guard from Thysville Military Camp outside Leopoldville on Jan. 18.

But the Katanga communique today said he and his associates escaped from a farmhouse near Kasaji, which is about 80 miles from the Angola border, on a highway leading across the frontier.

Munongo said the two other prisoners who escaped with Lumumba were Col. Joseph Okito and Maurice Mpolo.

Skepticism About Report

Mpolo was youth minister in Lumumba's cabinet and Okito vice president of the Senate.

Outside Katanga government circles, the announcement of Lumumba's escape was taken with some skepticism.

Rumors have circulated in Katanga, Leopoldville, Brussels and at the U. N. headquarters in New York that Lumumba has been killed. U. N. officials and news

13 Pupils and Master Buried Under Snow

Avalanche Hits Them While They Cross Steep Slope

LENZERHEIDE, Switzerland (AP)—A snow slide buried 13 vacationing Swiss pupils and their master on 7,600-foot Scalottas Mountain in eastern Switzerland today.

First police reports said six boys had been dug from the snow, three of them dead and one seriously injured.

The students had started up the Scalottas on skis this morning and were buried by the avalanche while crossing a steep slope not far from their starting point.

Dogs Lead Diggers

Almost 100 persons were frantically digging into the 1,000-foot-wide, 150-foot-deep mass of snow which crashed down off the normal ski track.

Specially trained avalanche dogs had already led diggers to some of the buried.

Normally there is little danger of avalanches in the area, but recent high temperatures and heavy snowfalls in the mountains have rendered the slopes dangerous.

The Swiss Central Weather Station put out an avalanche warning for all of Switzerland this morning after the time the student party started out. But apparently the group leader did not know about it.

Flight Plans Violated, Officials Say

PARIS (AP)—The government today termed French air force interception of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev's plane a regrettable incident and promised an investigation.

Low level officers in Algiers charged a jet fighter fired warning shots at the plane over the Mediterranean Thursday because the Soviets violated flight plans. The Soviet Embassy in Rabat, Morocco, replied hotly that the French charges were pure invention.

The Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying an investigation of the "regrettable incident" had been ordered.

The spokesman would make no further comment but it appeared the government here viewed the incident far more seriously than did French authorities in Algeria.

Sunny Afternoon

There was general agreement that the incident took place in the early afternoon in sunny skies when the Soviet Ilyushin 18 turboprop was flying over the Mediterranean en route to Rabat.

A French twin-jet Vulture fighter fired warning tracer bursts ahead of the plane. It was one of three sent out, said French officials in Algiers.

Algiers military authorities today issued a communique charging that the Soviet plane was flying south of its announced route in an irregular manner which "made verification necessary."

Custom Violated

The Algiers communique also accused the Soviets of violating custom by failing to notify the French that Brezhnev was aboard.

Warning bursts were fired only because the Soviets violated regulations by refusing to make radio contact with the intercepting fighters, the communique said.

A Soviet communique issued in Rabat, Morocco, where Brezhnev stopped on the way to an official visit to Guinea, said the four-engine turboprop plane messaged Al-

President Seeks 59 Ex-Sen. Tydings More Judgeships

Cites Congestion in Courts To Show Need for Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy joined today in asking congress to create 59 more federal judgeships to relieve the legal log-jam in the courts.

The president sent letters to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and to the speaker of the house, Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., asking speedy action on an administration bill submitted to both branches by his brother, the attorney general. Robert Kennedy also sent letters to the presiding officers.

Fifty more district judges and nine additional jurists on the court of appeals bench are needed, the President's letter said, "to relieve serious congestion and delays in many federal courts."

Undue delays in the administration of justice have been shown clearly in extensive congressional hearings and in testimony of the American Bar Association and state and local legal organizations, President Kennedy said. He pointed out that no new judgeships have been created for seven years.

Would Benefit Millions

"Prompt and favorable consideration of the measure will be of direct benefit to millions of people throughout the country," the White House letter said.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy made much the same point and asserted: "Since 1934 there has been a decrease in the total number of judicial positions resulting from the expiration of three judgeships created on a temporary basis."

"In the meantime, the increase in litigation in the federal courts has created serious problems of delay."

$750 Million Suit Filed Against GE

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Damages of $750 million are sought in a suit filed against General Electric Co., alleging injury as a result of rigged prices to 50 million consumers who bought GE products at retail.

J. Orion Brunk, Peoria businessman, and Mrs. Mary Brown, a housewife, were named as plaintiffs in the suit filed yesterday in U.S. District court.

Jack A. Brunnenmeyer and Harry Sommermaker, the Peoria lawyers who filed the suit, said it was designed to recover damages for all purchasers of GE products in the United States.

The suit was promptly termed "fantastic" and "preposterous" by General Electric in a statement issued through its New York headquarters.

The complaint said the plaintiffs had suffered financial injury as a result of rigged prices and asked triple damages.

Engaged in Bitter Political Feud With McCarthy

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Sunday for Millard E. Tydings, a leading Democratic spokesman who never hesitated to buck leaders of either party during 24 years in the U. S. Senate.

Tydings died of pneumonia Thursday night at Oakington, his 50-acre farm near here in Harford County. He was 70.

During his Senate career, from 1926 to 1950, Tydings at times crossed swords with Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. But his most bitter political feud was with the late Joseph R. McCarthy, Republican senator from Wisconsin.

Conducted Inquiry

Early in 1950, Tydings was named chairman of a special Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee to investigate McCarthy's charges that Communists were working in the State Department.

Tydings subsequently denounced McCarthy in a two-hour Senate speech, and claiming McCarthy's charges did not contain "an ounce of truth."

In the Maryland senatorial campaign that fall, Republican John Marshall Butler accused Tydings of whitewashing the State Department loyalty investigation.

Tydings lost to Butler in a bitter fight. Butler was sealed over Tydings' objections when a Senate subcommittee found Butler had conducted a dignified campaign blackened by "non-Maryland outsiders."

Tydings

Kennedy followed this up by stating at his Wednesday news conference "We for our part mean to go on as full and energetic partners in NATO, and in particular we wish to maintain our military strength in Europe." He praised NATO as "our central and most important defensive alliance."

May Close Some Bases

Some outdated overseas bases conceivably will be closed as a result of a sweeping study now under way in the Defense Department to gear defenses to the nuclear age.

But Kennedy has ruled that the determining factor governing any such shutdowns must be whether

Nations Plan for Future Meetings

PARIS (AP)—The leaders of the six European common market nations agreed today to give their economic alliance political functions and to hold future summit sessions regularly.

A reliable diplomatic source said the government leaders also agreed the common market structure could encompass such problems—at a later date—as communications and cultural exchanges.

This agreement was apparently a compromise between the political goals of French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

De Gaulle would like to see a European confederation of states while Adenauer leans toward further integration.

Studies Unemployment

Goldberg Urges Economic Unity

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg today appealed for bipartisan support of a President Kennedy's program to curb what he called a "full fledged recession" and restore full government, business and labor production and employment.

Goldberg arrived in Chicago from Washington on the first stop of a five-day inspection mission.

The labor secretary told Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and a conference of some 50 business and labor people that every $1.2 billion emergency employment of American society can be gained by renewing economic vigor.

"In my way of thinking," he said, "we ought to bury our politics in dealing with the domestic economy in the same way we do or purport to do, with our foreign policy."

Basis of Strength

He said cooperation is needed in both fields because, "the keynote of success in our foreign policy is a healthy and vigorous domestic economy."

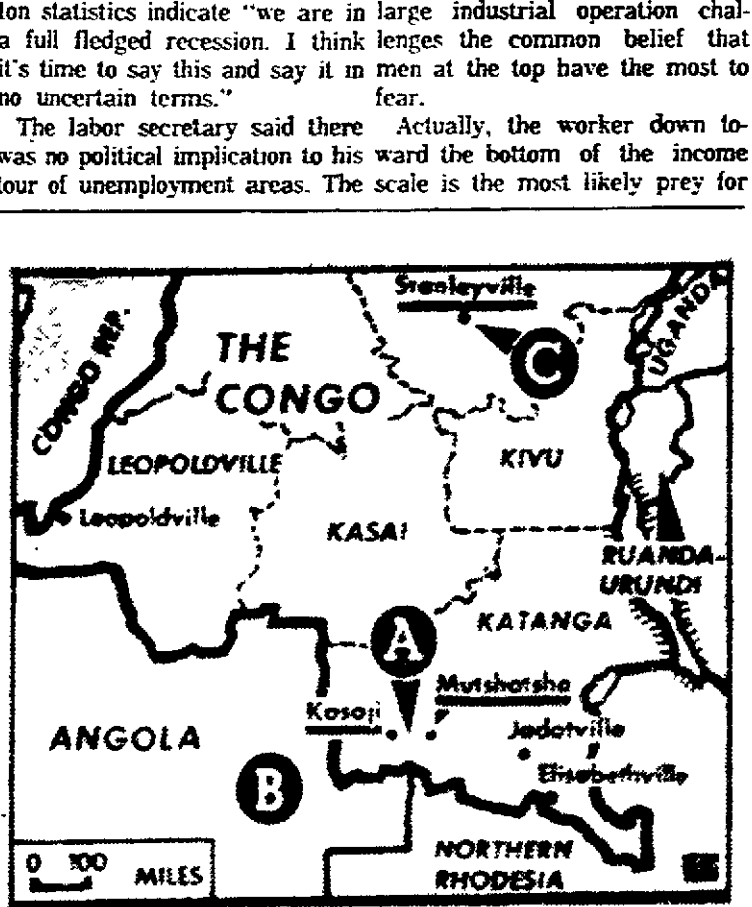

"The strength of our domestic economy is the basis of our military strength."

Goldberg said all the Washington statistics indicate "we are in large industrial operation, a full fledged recession. I think it's time to say this and say it in no uncertain terms."

The labor secretary said there was no political implication to his tour of unemployment areas. The scale is the most likely prey for

Tot, 4, Rescued From Snowpile

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—A 4-year-old girl was rescued early today from a pile of snow alongside her home in which she apparently had been buried for about 10 hours.

The child, Rose Mary Kinsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kinsey, was taken to Middlesex General Hospital suffering from a severe case of exposure.

Police Chief George Kane said he was convinced the girl was buried by a slide of snow from an adjacent rooftop while playing in the four-foot-wide alley adjoining her home, which is in a basement apartment.

When Rose Mary was reported missing, about 100 volunteers undertook a search of the entire area around the Kinsey home.

Hayward Area Residents Seek Federal Loan

HAYWARD (AP)—A $250,000 federal loan will be sought by northern Wisconsin area residents hard hit financially by the virtual shutdown of the Mount Telemark ski area due to lack of snow all this winter.

The loan, to be requested from the Small Business Administration, would be used to finance purchase of artificial snow-making equipment and thus prevent a repetition of this season's debacle.

Some 250 area persons who attended a meeting here Thursday night signed the petition.

The petition, it was pointed out, would bolster an anticipated request by Gov. Gaylord Nelson to have Southern Bayfield County and northern Sawyer County declared a disaster area. This would pave the way for an SBA loan.

Mount Telemark, located near Cable, is one of Wisconsin's top winter ski resorts. Because of the snow drought it has been open only two days this season. There is presently little or no snow on the ground in this area.

Tony Wise, manager and chief stockholder, spiked a report the resort had snow insurance and wouldn't reopen regardless of the weather.

"If we can get snow we'll open at once," said Wise. "You couldn't buy that kind of insurance, even from Lloyd's of London."

Weaver Faces Two Serious Problems

Senate Clears Nomination of New York Negro; Must Deal With Economic Slump in Field

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert C. Weaver has won Senate confirmation as the government's top housing administrator, but he faces two serious problems as he takes over this key post.

The Senate cleared the nomination Thursday night by voice vote after five hours of argument, putting Weaver in the highest position ever held by a Negro in the federal executive branch.

The vote had not been expected to come for about 10 days, but the Senate stayed in session late to approve Weaver under pressure from President Kennedy.

The New Yorker is expected to take the oath promptly so that he can assume command of the housing and home finance agency next week. This agency is down for almost a billion dollars in new

Government to Seek Damages On Rigged Bids

First Complaint on Electrical Concerns To Be Filed Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has made it official—the government will seek millions of dollars in damages from electrical equipment firms that pleaded guilty to rigging bids on government contracts.

Kennedy said Thursday the first complaint will be filed within two months.

He noted that at least 20 federal agencies bought electrical equipment from the defendants during the period covered by the charge. Among the firms are General Electric and Westinghouse.

The companies face an avalanche of other damage suits. At least 171 cities are considering a mammoth joint suit asking triple damages from the firms. The federal government is limited to recovering actual damages.

And in Peoria, Ill., two attorneys filed suit Thursday for $750 million in damages from General Electric, saying they were acting on behalf of individual buyers of GE products.

In New York, GE said it is voluntarily reviewing transactions with many customers, including the federal government, to determine "whether they have received fair value."

In Philadelphia, where the huge antitrust case originated, two companies and three executives Thursday paid fines levied against them.

H. K. Porter, Inc., of Pittsburgh and Ingersoll-Rand Co. of New York sent checks totaling $70,000 to the U. S. District Court. They were the first of the 29 companies to pay their fines. Porter paid $30,000 and Ingersoll-Rand $20,000.

Some high executives of the companies involved were given jail terms.

Duluth Unemployment Classified as More Serious by Government housing. The Utah senator said this would put the nominee on "a very hot spot," one "creating an almost impossible situation for him."

Sparkman said Weaver had assured the Senate Banking Committee he would not try to impose his own open occupancy ideas in administering the wide range of housing programs, but would follow the policies laid down by Kennedy and the Commission pending a possible regress. "I expect him to live up to this," Sparkman said.

Douglas MacArthur II To Go to Belgium For Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has named Douglas MacArthur II as ambassador to

MacArthur Ailes

Belgium. MacArthur, a nephew of the famous general, has been ambassador to Japan.

MacArthur has had long experience in the State department. He has been assigned to Paris and Brussels, where he now returns as chief of the mission, and has held various planning and policy posts here.

Kennedy also yesterday picked Stephen Ailes, a Washington lawyer, to be Undersecretary of the Army. John O. Crow, an Indian who has worked in the Bureau of Indian Affairs for 28 years, was named acting commissioner of the bureau pending a possible regress.

Philip H. Coombs, an official of the Ford Foundation, was chosen for the new post of Assistant Secretary of State for Educational and Cultural Affairs. Kennedy also announced that William Randolph Hearst, editor in chief of Hearst publications, will remain as chairman of the president's committee for traffic safety.

The senate yesterday confirmed these appointments in rapid order:

Rex M. Whitton of Missouri, federal highway administrator.

Nicholas De Belleville Katzenbach of Chicago, assistant attorney general in charge of the office of legal counsel.

Rules Goldfine Competent to Stand Trial

Faces Charges of Evading $800,000 In Income Taxes

BOSTON (AP) — Industrialist Bernard Goldfine of Boston, who wooed favor with expensive gifts to politicians, has been ruled mentally competent to face trial on charges of evading $800,000 in federal income taxes.

The ruling Thursday followed a six-day hearing on the government's contention Goldfine, 70, was capable of aiding in the conduct of his defense.

Federal Judge George C. Sweet pulled up in a squad car on the new found Goldfine had no "delusions or hallucinations" and could "assist and consult with his attorneys in preparation of his defense."

Trial Set

Trial was set for March 20, U.S. Atty. Elliot L. Richardson said. Indictments against Goldfine did not cover all his liability for taxes and penalties, which Richardson said exceed $5 million.

Goldfine was released in $5,000 bail and Judge Sweeney ordered that "no drastic psychiatric therapy" be used before trial.

Goldfine's association with high figures in government came to public attention during congressional testimony disclosed that Goldfine lavished gifts on many officials of state and federal governments.

Most prominent of the recipients of Goldfine's largesse was President Eisenhower. The dis- and Jim Tackett, 54, wrestled Sherman Adams, assistant to the president, who was given said Brenda pulled the trigger an expensive vicuna coat and twice but the hammer clicked on empty cartridges.

The careening car skidded, crashed into a ditch a mile or so past the city limits and rolled like a barrel.

Sargent and his wife wiggled out of the twisted wreckage and staggered into nearby swampy brush. They were tracked down a quarter mile away, up to their shoulders in backwater.

They did not resist. Their guns were empty.

Ike's Administration Accused Of Keeping Vital Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate faces of Kennedy's election campaign. He used the term missile a cooling off period for the missile gap controversy.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Thursday said the dispute should "not be made a partisan matter."

At the same time he accused the Eisenhower administration of "a calculated and deliberate effort to keep vital defense information from President Kennedy when he was campaigning for the White House."

Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky agreed defense is not a partisan matter. When it is fully appraised, he said, Kennedy "should tell the American people the actual situation."

Wait for Facts
"Wait until the facts are in," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

The missile gap go-around started when Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara held a briefing session Monday with newsmen, with the understanding that nothing was to be attributed to him.

Tax Chief's Plans Could Affect All

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If the new tax chiefs of the Kennedy Administration could have their way, the income tax system under which you and I live would be revolutionized overnight — and the pocketbooks of every taxpayer would be directly and profoundly affected.

An overhaul nothing short of violent has been publicly urged again and again by the three men who will speak for the Administration on tax policy and carry out our laws and regulations. The men are: Harvard Law School Professor Stanley Surrey, who as Asst. Secretary of the Treasury in charge of tax policy will recommend changes in our laws; Virginia University Professor Mortimer Caplin, who as Commissioner of Internal Revenue will collect our taxes; Minnesota University Professor Walter Heller, who as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers will be Kennedy's top consultant on our economy.

Views on Record

These three men have placed their tax views on record often and at length. In simplest words, this is what they would do — if Congress would go along with them and pass the laws:

- (1) Wipe out virtually all special tax breaks at once and, thus subject to Federal taxes tens of billions of dollars of incomes now escaping tax;
- (2) Permit each individual taxpayer and each dependent a simple personal exemption and not many other deductions;
- (3) Drastically cut tax rates at the highest income level and slash them — possibly as much as 40 per cent on average — up and down the line of taxpayers;
- (4) End up with an uncluttered, graduated income tax at much lower rates which would raise the money needed by the federal government but at the same time close the tax loopholes.

Means to You

Specifically, what might this mean to you? Read on . . .

Average wage and salary workers would be benefited as the elimination of the special tax breaks permitted reductions of rates. A wage-earner with a simple family setup easily might find his annual Federal income tax bill cut hundreds of dollars.

Older and disabled citizens would be badly hurt. Surrey believes social security benefits should be taxed and the retirement income credit for elderly citizens should be eliminated. Also slated for limbo would be extra exemptions for persons 65 years of age or older and the blind. The retired individual's anguish isn't hard to imagine!

Many businessmen would be helped. The lowering of the tax rate on corporation income and the drastic reduction in the maximum rates on highest personal incomes are the vital points here. These savings would in many cases more than offset the elimination of special tax favors.

Investors would get a beating.

Here the tax revolution would be in full bloom. For instance, the rate on capital gains — now at a maximum of 25 per cent — would be raised substantially, and the definition of capital gains would be narrowed. In lots of cases, profits now taxed at the favored rate would be taxed as ordinary income and be subject to the higher rates. Special breaks on dividend income — the dividend exemption and dividend credit — would be wiped out. Income from dividends and interest would be withheld at the source. Tax exemption on interest earned on state and local obligations would be eliminated, hurting both investors wanting to buy tax-exempt securities and the states and localities now having the privilege of selling tax-exempt.

Single taxpayers would be helped. They get few tax favors now, so they wouldn't mind losing the few, and they'd benefit from the cut rates.

Homeowners would be unhappy, for there would be a ceiling on deductions they could take for tax and interest payments.

What are the chances for a revolution of this magnitude? I'll counter that question with another question — namely, how willing are you to give up your special tax privileges in return for a promised over-all lower rate? The answer to the first is inherent in the second.

Joint Meeting Planned to Air School Needs

Kaukauna Officials Seek Solution to Crowded Conditions

KAUKAUNA — A joint meeting of the Common Council and Board of Education has been called for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the council chambers to discuss the city school needs.

Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon expressed hope many citizens also would be present to express views and opinions on problems facing the city. The school board has realized serious crowded conditions at the high school this year and even more problems in September.

In an effort to find a solution, reports were secured from the Fox Valley Regional Plan Commission and experts from the State Board of Education. Both were requested to investigate the school situation fully and bring in recommendations on type of school to be built, location, projected population trends and other data.

Reports Received

The board of education received conflicting reports, one advocating relocation of the high school near city limits on the southside, while the second advocated use of the present high school facilities and adding to the building.

After review of both reports, the board indicated addition to the existing building seemed the most feasible, both as to cost and meeting future needs.

Board members felt junior high schools could be located in other sections of the city at some future date if necessary. The existing plant, they said, was more adaptable to high school use.

A meeting was asked with the council to take steps toward making school construction possible. Such problems as purchasing additional land, floating a bond issue, extent of building to be undertaken and other items are expected to be aired at the joint session.

The council and school board both expressed hope, a satisfactory solution could be found to meet Kaukauna school needs for many years and that no mistake in long range planning would make their decision seem impossible in years to come. It is hoped the school will be ready for use by 1962.

stand this is done by abrasive methods. Is it expensive? I have a scar about an inch long on my forehead from an accident and often wondered if anything could be done about it. — Mrs. F.C.

This abrasion method is used by plastic surgeons as well as by some dermatologists. In some cases a scar can best be removed by surgical removal of the scar tissue itself, then carefully drawing the edges together with invisible stitches — stitches which actually are underneath the skin, and do not go through the skin. However, "skin planing" or "abrasion" can be used. The skin in the area is planed down and a new surface layer grows in its place.

This method will remove many minor blemishes, but will not remove the deeper pitting which sometimes occurs.

Whether the abrasion method would be suitable for you is a matter to be answered only by examination of the scar itself.

As to expense, I can't answer — I don't know what you might consider expensive. Planing is a surgical procedure. It must be done with skill and, of course, under surgically antiseptic conditions. It is by no means a trivial procedure. Many people would consider the money well spent. Others might decide that a small scar isn't so bad, after all. It depends on you and the scar.

Daughter Overweight

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, 8, is overweight, and also occasionally wets the bed. Is there any connection? And is there a pamphlet you could send regarding same?" — Mrs. A.E.

Yes, there can be a connection. Except where there is some real physical flaw, bed-wetting is primarily a matter of nerves and habit. The child may be upset because of the weight, or may be over-eating to compensate for some emotional conflict. It happens frequently. Yes, I have a booklet on this topic, "Enuresis — or 10 Ways to Stop Bed-Wetting." For a copy, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to Dr. Molner, care of this newspaper.

Remove Scars

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have read that scars can in part be removed, or at least made less obvious, by dermatologists. I understand this is done by abrasive methods. Is it expensive? I have a scar about an inch long on my forehead from an accident and often wondered if anything could be done about it. — Mrs. F.C."

"Don't Quit Because Of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Says Taxes Don't Force Business From State

Gronouski Claims Combinations of Factors Responsible for Industrial Moves

John Gronouski, director of the Wisconsin department of taxation, said last night that "even if we eliminated all taxes in Wisconsin, I'm not so sure there would be a surge of business in the state."

Gronouski commented on the relationship of taxes to industrial development at a meeting of about 30 Outagamie County Democrats.

The tax department administrator admitted taxes are higher than average on business and industry in Wisconsin, but added, "of course, this is the way the system was planned."

Taxes One Factor

"We're not too bad off." In the last decade, he said, the population has increased by 15 per cent, wages rose above the nationwide average, unemployment is lower than the nationwide average and personal income is higher.

When asked if he thought the fact that business is moving out of the state reflects on the tax setup, Gronouski said taxes are only one factor that determines the industry's action.

A study at Wayne University listed 33 factors that influenced the location of industry, and business taxes were on the bottom of the list.

LaCrosse Firm

Important factors, he said, are such things as the quality and supply of labor, raw materials and transportation, and "where the executives want to live."

Auto-Lite Co. moved out of LaCrosse because it was badly managed. It was pulling out of several locations to consolidate, he said.

For every dollar paid by business to the state, 50 cents is paid by the federal government because of a 50 per cent deduction, he added.

I'm not opposed to industrial

Squandering Taxes Should be Unpopular

The Department of Commerce advises the average American taxpayer that if he wants to know where his money goes, or how much he pays to the federal government, he can set down the total paid in income tax and increase that amount by 82 per cent. That will give him the total amount of his federal tax because the 82 per cent represents the average amount of the other direct or indirect taxes paid to the United States. Of that total, approximately 57 per cent is spent for national security.

Eleven per cent of the total goes for interest on the public debt, 6 per cent each is spent on veterans, agriculture, labor and welfare. Four per cent each goes for commerce, housing and space technology. 3 per cent each is spent on international and national resources, and 2 per cent each is spent on general government and debt retirement.

Thus, if the taxpayer has a total bill to the federal government of $1,000, $570 of that amount goes for national security which includes money spent for the army, navy, marines, air force and related items.

With that in mind the average taxpayer will read with interest such items as one reporting that Pentagon buyers needlessly spent $875,000 or 20 per cent too much on the purchase of 509 semi-trailers for a total of $4,500,000.

Joseph Campbell, the comptroller general, says that what went on in this case should be known to every army contracting official as an example and a warning. He says the army asked the Freuhauf Trailer Company of Detroit to design a semi-trailer to carry gasoline. Then it bought the 509 semi-trailers for $4,500,000 without asking for competitive bids. Later it asked for competitive bids on 345 more semi-trailers. On the basis of these later bids, Campbell estimates the army could have saved $875,000 on the first order.

Rep. Martha W. Griffiths (D-Mich.) proposes to have a talk with Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara about this matter. She says "investigations of our committee on government operation show that practices like this go on all the time. They are literally costing the taxpayers millions of dollars. I understand that even on contracts for research and development the government does not always get from the contractor all of the information it paid him to produce."

Hundreds of such examples of waste of the taxpayers' money caused by uneconomical practices in the defense department have been revealed in recent years. Since the services spend 57 per cent of the total federal tax collection that is the most fruitful place to look by those who want to save money. Obviously millions could be saved there with no impairment whatsoever of the services. A watch over these expenditures is a task worthy of our most brilliant and devoted congressmen. Rep. Griffiths deserves the support of every citizen in undertaking this work.

Tenure of Elected Officials

Again in the legislature at Madison there are proposals for lengthening the terms of office of the principal state officials elected by the people. The plan is for an extension, through amendment of the constitution, of the traditional 2-year term to four years.

Sen. Robert Knowles, one of the more thoughtful members of the Republican legislative majority, is one of the champions of longer tenure for the principal policymaking administrative officers. There also is some sentiment for such legislation among members of the Democratic minority. Republican governors have favored such legislation in the past and Democratic Gov. Nelson favors it today. Thus the matter has no slightest suspicion of partisan taint or party purpose.

Yet it always has been coolly received by the legislature, which on these matters tends to reflect what it believes popular opinion to be. If the amendments should be approved by this legislature, and then by the succeeding legislature, so that they could be put on the ballot for popular ratification, it is a reasonable guess that they would encounter considerable difficulty. There is an inherent suspicion about these matters, reflecting perhaps a basic democratic ideal that the government should remain closely under popular control and that an easy way to assure such control is through short terms and frequent elections.

We find it difficult to quarrel with such instinctive reactions of many persons.

Russian Objectives

We are apt to see in the next few months additional outward gestures of friendship on the part of the Soviet Union to the new Kennedy administration. Khrushchev probably will do everything he can to keep the United States off balance while the new regime is getting its feet on the ground.

But as more instances arise such as the release of the American fliers, it is even more important that we keep the basic Communist strategy in mind.

Khrushchev preaches the doctrine of peaceful coexistence only as a means of achieving world Communism. Through relaxation of tensions he feels the Communist world will be able to concentrate on building its own internal strength. He believes that by setting an example of success the Communists will be able to extend their influence and eventually rule all nations without the risks of a world war. On the other hand, Khrushchev says smaller wars are inevitable, "wars of liberation," as he calls them, and Communists will continue to support revolutionaries against the capitalists.

Khrushchev is said to genuinely want disarmament. Here again his thinking should be clear. It would strip the West of military power, leaving the Communists free to use other means of aggression, for which they are well prepared. Since we all live in hope of a better world, we are apt to seize on conciliatory moves by the Russians as hopeful signs. We must keep firmly in mind the ultimate objectives of the Soviets and then we won't be lulled into false hopes.

North Enters Fight On Reapportionment

From The Ladysmith News

It took a little fire to bring northern Wisconsin's Democrats out of the woods on reapportionment, but that fire has been applied by their own cohorts down in Milwaukee.

The reapportionment plan, drawn up by an editorial writer for the Milwaukee Journal and adopted by the Democratic-dominated reapportionment committee, is bringing some anguished screams from area Democrats who had been strangely quiet during the election, perhaps at the suggestion of the southern Wisconsin party leaders.

But now they're getting into the act. State Sen. Howard Cameron, who wouldn't rise to the bait during the campaign, is now opposed to the plan. It could be because his present district would just disappear at the end of his term in 1962 and crats, the Republicans in the next Wisconsin legislature will probably come to their rescue by just not doing anything about the proposals.

The only real demand for reapportionment is from the Milwaukee-Waukesha-Madison area, which would stand to gain. With the GOP back at the helm in January, it is unlikely that the Democratic reapportionment plan will be adopted.

It may be that this sort of a "don't do anything about it" compromise is the best that rural Wisconsin can hope for in the way of equating area with population in representation.

'Here's Some Bad News, Dear'

More Than Red Tape Needed To Stop Footloose Romanies

WASHINGTON — When a Hungarian Gypsy makes his violin cry these days, he may be laughing up his sleeve.

Information filtering through the Iron Curtain suggests Gypsies have made a shambles of efforts to regiment their traditional free-as-a-bird lives. Passports, identification papers, and steady jobs mean nothing to the foot-loose Romanies.

The five or six million Gypsies who wander across other parts of Europe, the Americas, Asia, and Australia also resist settlement. Since leaving their original homeland in India before the Christian era, Gypsies have preferred to roam, the National Geographic Society says.

Swap Identity Cards Hungarian authorities have tried to persuade Gypsies to form woodworking and copper-smithing cooperatives, settle on collective farms, or take regular factory jobs. Most Gypsies greet these invitations with a resounding lack of enthusiasm.

Police gave Gypsies identity cards and forbade them to move. The system failed when the Gypsies made their identifications common property, swapped them with each other, and even used them as playing cards.

Taking a different tack, reports say, the Hungarian regime provided Gypsies with building material for houses. The Romanies sold the lumber and decamped. Free books kindled no burning desire for education, since the Gypsies made cigarette papers from textbook leaves.

In Poland, policemen stop every motorist, even at country crossroads, but just wave on the wanderers' horse-drawn wagons. "Certainly every Gypsy can show an identification paper," a policeman told a reporter. "Dear sir, he can show five identification papers. All different! All valid!"

Not long ago, 331 Polish Gypsies piled onto a train carrying repatriates to West Germany. The Gypsies lacked passports, visas, exit permits, and entry papers. The group blandly passed Polish and East German border guards. But West German police demanded their papers. The Gypsies said they had none and scrambled out windows into the railroad yard. Faced with an audacious fail accompli, the West Germans let the Gypsies stay.

Ever since the Russian Revolution, the Communists have been trying to make Gypsies take up "socially useful labor."

Periodically, the Russians report that Gypsies are abandoning their itinerant life to work in factories and farms.

Gypsies Strip House Europeans who know Gypsies smile at these pronouncements and recall an early effort to settle Russian Romanies.

The Soviet Government installed a group in a large house in Moscow, where they spent the winter. When Spring arrived, officials came to suggest a little trip to a nice collective farm. They found only the outer walls and parts of the floor remaining. Everything movable or combustible was missing. So were the Gypsies.

Kennedy Learns Some Facts of Politics

From The Detroit Free Press

President Kennedy is learning some of the facts of political life early in the game. A split has already occurred between him and AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany is cool because Kennedy cold-shouldered a labor man, Joseph D. Keenan, whom Meany had picked as assistant secretary of defense for manpower.

Keenan, apparently an able man with considerable background of public service, is a member of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. executive council. Meany says Kennedy promised shortly after the election to name Keenan to the job.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for the week of Feb. 7, 1961.

Mississippi seems to have leaped before she looked.

She has not a dollar in her treasury, has not paid the members of her last Legislature, has no credit anywhere on account of her shameless repudiations, no military organization, no food to speak of and no money to buy it with.

Having purchased the elephant of secession, the next question is what shall she do with it?

South Carolina, having repudiated all her constitutional obligations, now repudiates her honest debts. A bill passed both houses of her Legislature declaring all debts to citizens of non-slaveholding States null and void.

25 YEARS AGO

Unprecedented powers for Sec. Wallace and "dislocation of agriculture" at the expense of dairying were flaws picked in the new farm bill by seven Republicans of the house agriculture committee.

President Roosevelt reserved decision on the farm tax bill but estimated need for $500,000,000 for that program.

Dr. Harry F. Lewis, dean of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, left Appleton for an eastern trip to 17 universities, colleges and technical schools during the next two weeks.

Janet LaFond was named president of Miss Mary Carrier's speech class at Appleton High School. Catherine Radtke was named vice president, Clarence Perry, secretary, Rosemary Hoffman, treasurer, and Margaret Van Gorp, program chairman.

Mrs. Amanda Pfeil and Mrs. Clara Miller were appointed national aides at the meeting of George D. Eggleston Relief corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic.

A 24-hour fire that swept Michigan's state office building, causing an estimated $4,000,000 damage, "appeared" to have been brought under control, State Fire Marshal Arnold Renner said that day. American forces swept to the banks of the icy Han River near Seoul. Allied shells poured into the burned-out Korean capital.

Business Practices of State Rated as Terrible

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A committee of private corporation technicians has examined the business management practices of the state government, the largest single employer in the state, and has given a "failure" in the examination.

Perhaps any other enterprise of this size would get some demerits if audited by a dispassionate group of outside specialists. Yet in spite of the restrained style of the report of the study group recently published, the reader gets the impression that these men were extremely surprised at what they found.

In every important category—in purchasing, in supplies controls, data processing, personnel management, building maintenance and others—these professional critics, most of whom worked with virtual anonymity, came up with a string of proposals for reform.

If the effect is to add a feather to the political cap of Gov. Nelson, who has been critical of housekeeping standards in his domain and who set up this informal audit by experts from private enterprise, the result also should be to arouse support among the taxpaying stockholders for some improvements.

HOW IT GOES

The state now has more than $400,000,000 of its taxpayers' money invested in physical plant. But its maintenance practices are terrible, as the inspection group said in more polite language.

Wyngaard

Thirty years ago in a burst of reform the governor and the legislature (it was Walter J. Kohler Sr. and a Republican legislature) set up what was intended to be a central bureau of purchases to achieve the economies that are obvious through a device now accepted as minimum practice in every self-respecting private business house.

But today it is discovered that most of the purchasing continues to be done independently by operating agencies, and the heads of the central bureau are buried in clerical detail that has kept their talents from the central job.

The state has boasted for years about the perfection of its personnel system, the non-political recruitment, the merit examinations, etc. But here a group of private personnel managers concludes that basic reforms are required in the personnel department also, involving the recruitment, compensation and supervision of nearly 25,000 persons drawing public paychecks.

REACTION

This is fairly dull matter. It doesn't have the attention-getting value of bingo legislation, or deer shooting, or the many other topics that are involved in the daily grist of news from Madison. Yet it has an obvious relation to the public welfare in an area of galloping public expenditures and proliferating public taxation.

The fact that this private industry group found at least 150 recommendations for improvements in administrative housekeeping is not especially surprising, moreover, to anybody whose work requires constant observation of the work of state agencies. Any reporter of experience, perhaps, could add a score or two.

What is important today is that there is machinery to make these improvements, and an apparent desire to make them.

This correspondent remembers past governors who had experience in business management—Oscar Rennebohm as a conspicuous example—who was repeatedly astounded about what he learned about procedure in the government. For one reason and another they didn't get around to acting on their discoveries.

Today the machinery is available. Gov. Nelson has the will, it appears. He also commands, in the new department of administration, the most powerful new agency set up in Wisconsin in a lifetime. Bureaucracy is a stubborn thing. But it begins to appear that there are going to be some changes made.

Choose Wall Material to Meet Specific Projects

BY ANDY LANG
What's the best wall material for an extra room in the house? Don't let anybody give you a flat answer to that question unless he has first asked you a lot of questions. There are many factors to be considered, not the least of which is the use to which the room will be put and the amount of money that is to be spent.

Also, entirely aside from the practical considerations, there is the very unpredictable element of personal preference. You have to like the appearance of the new room or your reasons for selecting a particular kind of wall material will seem less and less important as time goes on.

Ask Questions
How then do you decide? By looking over ALL the available materials, by asking questions, by reading booklets and by inspecting finished installations, either in model rooms displayed by dealers or in the home of friends.

As a starter, let's see what some of your choices are. There is inexpensive gypsum board, which is a form of plaster covered on both sides by strong treated paper. The most common form requires the filling of the joints before painting or papering.

Asbestos cement board looks like gypsum board, but costs more and is ideal for bathrooms, laundry rooms and furnace enclosures because it is water resistant as well as fireproof. Fiberboard or insulating board has an inside core of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous vegetable material and comes with a predecorated finish.

Personal Preference
Hardboard is made of wood fibers bonded in hydraulic presses to form a material of great strength with a smooth surface. It is excellent in rooms that will be subjected to hard usage, since it resists dents and other bruises.

One type of hardboard comes with a plastic surface that combines good looks with durability. There are many other kinds of suitable wall materials, including regular wall paneling and plywood. And then, of course, there is gypsum lath and plaster, strong, durable and offering excellent fire protection.

In any case, select what pleases you and what fits your purpose and pocketbook.

An Unconventional Design gives special handling to the living room in this split level, and creates a balconied dining room. There are eight rooms in the house and 1½ baths.

House of the Week

Split Level Design Altered

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

A different approach to basic split-level style produces a balconied dining room and glamorous living room in this eight-room home.

The design has three principal levels, not counting the basement, just like the usual split. However, the living room—usually on the middle level with dining room and kitchen—has been dropped down to within two steps of the first level. This creates a dramatic relationship between dining and living rooms which is emphasized by liberal use of decorative wrought iron railing.

entire front in an unbroken sweep.

Another special feature is the outdoor dining deck directly behind the kitchen and on the same level. It's connected by stairway to the ground level terrace behind the recreation room and makes a pleasant setting for outdoor relaxation or dining, with food service possible either from the kitchen or an outdoor barbecue in the rear yard.

There are 1,330 sq. ft. of living area on the bedroom and living levels, with another 508 in the foyer, recreation room and study on the entrance level. With a two-car garage, the over-all width is 55'2". This drops to 45' if only a one-car garage is included. The depth is 33'5".

With the entrance on the ground level, a minimum of grading is necessary on level or gently sloping lots. The entrance is sheltered and nicely framed on both sides. Inside the front door both coat closet and powder room open on the foyer.

The long sight lines from the foyer through the recreation room and its sliding glass doors to the rear terrace, and across the 18-foot living room, contribute to a feeling of spaciousness.

Family Areas

Family areas of the house can be reached from the front entrance without entering the living room. A half-flight of stairs from the recreation room reach the dining room alongside the kitchen door and a U-turn at that point will take you the rest of the way up to the bedroom level.

Off the recreation room to the left is a small study, guest room or fourth bedroom. The kitchen is 18 feet long, with ample space for family meals.

On the upper level are three bedrooms and a large bath. The bath is accessible both from the hallway and from the master bedroom through a compact dressing room. Master bedroom also has a walk-in closet.

Plumber Industry Role in National Defense Surveyed

The plumbing industry, because of its close relation to sanitation, is considered essential to survival in the event of a nuclear attack on the United States.

Recognizing the vital role of the plumbing industry in national defense, the Business and Defense Services Administration, at the request of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, has made a comprehensive survey of the productive capacity of the industry.

This survey, based on production in 1957, has provided the industry with statistics not available before.

The value of plumbing fixtures, shower stalls, and shower receptacles shipped in 1957 totaled $287.6 million, according to the government survey which included all known producers.

Metal and vitreous china plumbing fixtures were shipped in 1957 by 72 companies, which operated 93 plants in 19 states.

The plumbing fixture industry is estimated to have a potential capacity to increase production of vitreous china fixtures about 30 per cent, cast iron enameled fixtures about 40 per cent, and formed steel fixtures over 50 per cent.

These government figures indicate that the plumbing industry is a resilient industry. Even if half of its plant capacity were destroyed, the remaining facilities could take care of the requirements of the United States, the survey points out.

Radiant Heat Acts Like Rays of Sun

Warmth Passes Through Air to Objects, Gives Extra Comfort

There is nothing mysterious about radiant panel heating even though it uses no radiators, convectors, vents or visible heat outlets of any kind. Briefly here's how it works: In most radiant panel systems the heat source is hot water circulating through copper tube coils embedded in plaster ceilings or concrete floors of a home. The heat from the coils is transmitted evenly throughout the plaster or concrete converting the ceiling or floor into a heated "panel."

Heat rays, similar to the rays of the sun in their behavior, then emanate from the ceiling or floor warming all objects in the room rather than the air. Somewhat like "sitting in the sun."

Although radiant heating systems are not new — the Romans used a somewhat similar method to heat their public baths — the recent popularity of this type of heating is based on modern concepts of comfort and convenience.

Furniture Arrangement
The opportunity to use every square inch of wall and floor space for furniture arrangement has great appeal to housewives. But even more important has been the need for a system that can produce warmth without the discomfort of overheating.

Because the heat from a radiant panel system is uniform, the problem of uneven heat distribution in a room is eliminated. The surface temperature of the floor or ceiling required to produce comfortable heat is relatively low — 120 degrees F for ceilings, 85 degrees F for floors.

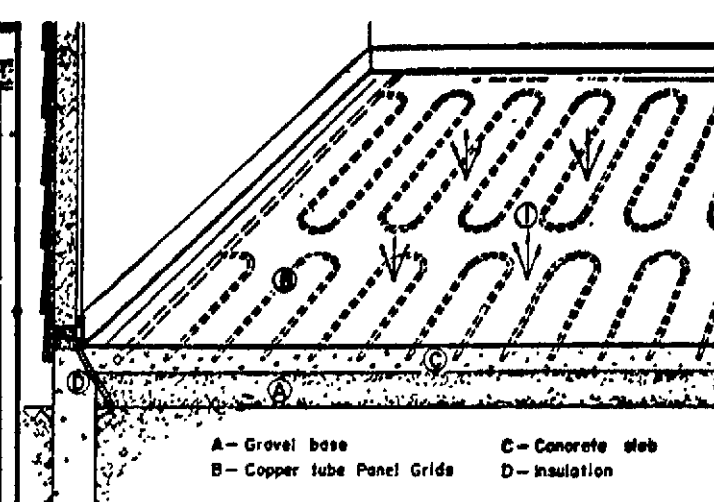

Many home owners also feel that radiant heating is a cleaner type of heat because there is less air circulation to stir up dust. Also, with radiant heat, the lower air temperature results in a higher relative humidity. This is more healthful to humans and better for woodwork and furniture than the "dryness" associated with heat-saturated air.

Like Sun's Rays
Probably the most frequent question asked about radiant heating is: In many installations the ceiling serves as the radiant heat source. How is it possible to keep floors warm, especially since heat rises?

The answer is that heat does not rise, only heated air rises. Radiant heat rays are similar to those of the sun. They pass through the air without discharging their heat until they strike an object, like furniture, walls, floors or humans. An example of this phenomenon is stepping out of the shadows into the sunlight on a cold day. The temperature

With Radiant Heating the amount of heat loss in the air is reduced considerably, which is the biggest economy factor with that type of installation. Because air is not saturated with heat relative humidity in rooms is higher, eliminating the dryness often associated with indoor air.

Adjust Door Hinges If Edges Rub on Sill

BY J. RALPH DALZELL

Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Door Troubles: Doors in both old and new houses sometimes swell or warp so that they stick or rattle. This trouble is seldom caused by a defect in the door. It is more likely that damp air is the cause. If air on one side of a door is humid, while the air on the other side is dry, some warping is possible. To avoid any chance of warping, make sure all door surfaces are sealed with paint or varnish.

When a door cannot be opened and closed with ease, do not immediately sandpaper or plane it. These remedies make redecorating necessary and often cause doors to look out of square.

If the upper corner of a door (see A in picture 1) strikes the trim and cannot be opened or closed without binding, and this condition has existed long, try the following. Take the door off its hinges by removing the pins, first the lower and then the top one. Take out the screws which fasten the jamb hinge plate (see picture 2). Use a sharp chisel to deepen the "gain" (recess) back of the plate. Then screw the plate back into position and rehang the door. If necessary, deepen the gain more so sticking at "A" stops.

Cardboard Packing
When the corner of a door rubs on the sill (see C in picture 1) remove the bottom hinge and place a piece or two of cardboard under the jamb hinge plate (as shown in picture 3). It may be necessary to use new, slightly longer screws. This changes the tilt of the door to avoid rubbing at point "C."

If the edge of the door (at D in picture 1) sticks, deepen the recesses back of both jamb plates. A slight sticking at "B" can generally be corrected by sandpapering. Make sure that all hinge plates are tight, especially those attached to the jamb. Use heavy sanding or a plane only in extreme cases.

When closed doors rattle, the latches are slipping into strike holes before the doors are snug against the stops (see picture 2). To stop rattling, move the strike plates closer to the stops. If doors have warped so the latches do not slip into strike plate holes, it may be necessary to enlarge the holes at top or bottom. A less than lost heat is needed in the jamb can be lubricated by rubbing the pin with a soft pencil lead.

Stop Drafts
To stop drafts under a door and make it more soundproof, install the hardware (shown in pictures 4 and 5). The hardware is attached to the lower panel, as shown. When the door is open, the plunger remains above the carpet (picture 4). As the door is closed (picture 5) the plunger makes a snug contact with the carpet and seals out drafts and some sound.

Warped or out-of-level floors allow rain, dust and cold air to enter a house under thresholds (see picture 6). Take up the threshold by weatherstripping and fill the process on the under side with a generous amount of putty or grout compound. This will act as a seal.

How to Insulate a Foundation: During winter, the interior surface of a foundation may be many degrees colder than desired play-ers Association, Washington 6, room temperature. Heat is lost D.C., for 25 cents a copy.

Questions and Answers

Q. How can the exterior surfaces of outside doors be protected against weather?
A. Apply two coats of highest grade spar varnish to the surfaces of the doors.

Q. Is it advisable to insulate the interior of a door?
A. Less than lost heat is needed in the jamb can be lubricated by rubbing the pin with a soft pencil lead.

Q. Is it absolutely necessary that all gas burning appliances be vented to a chimney?
A. The combustion of gas contains a high percentage of water. Unless properly disposed of, the water vapor can cause damaging and unsanitary condensation.

Closets Get Bigger With Good Planning

Utilize Wasted Space to Store Off-Season Items

"I haven't anyplace to hang my clothes," is an oft-heard complaint of the fair sex rivaled closely by the famed lament from the same quarter — "I haven't a thing to wear."

Only frequent trips to the fashion marts of the world can solve the latter problem, experts admit. But a little ingenuity and planning right in the home will do much to ease the pressure of limited closet space, according to the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Beauty goes hand in hand with efficiency as wasteful jumbles are rearranged. Better use of the closets you have may prove that there is plenty of space. Certainly it will save money by protecting your clothes, and soothe nerves jangled by frantic hunts for garments.

Use All Space

The first step in reorganizing a closet is to remove everything. Study what space formerly was wasted. Measure the height of shelves and make a rough sketch showing height, width and depth of the closet, so that you can plan additions.

Are upper spaces utilized? Probably not. A shelf can be put in here or extended and used for articles not too often needed. An extra rod can be fastened below this shelf for garment bags. The latter are recommended since dust is always a clothes problem. Helping here, too, are floors of such easily-cleaned material as Kente vinyl asbestos tile which will brighten the interior at the same time.

Don't forget to use the door to its full capacity. If it is a regular swinging door, it can carry hooks and fittings that will store many things. Hangers which open like a towel rack, for instance, can hold skirts. A shoe bar at the bottom will take such items as jodhpur shoes and overshoes.

Above all, when you are ready to fill the revamped closet, make a careful inventory. Out of season clothing should go in the back in a sealed bag. Place long garments in one bag, short in another so that you get use of the floor space under the latter. Such thoughtful planning pays big dividends in looks and convenience.

See Possibility of U. S.-Red Negotiations in Six Months

Re-Examination of Foreign Policy Being Made by Kennedy, Rusk

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kennedy administration leaders now estimate they can be ready to undertake major negotiations with the Soviet Union within six months. Soviet officials have been warned quietly against triggering new crises at Berlin or elsewhere during this formative period in the hope of exploiting any lack of experience and decisiveness in Washington.

Though President Kennedy hopes for better East-West relations, Moscow has been informed, any fresh Soviet challenge will bring a swift, tough U. S. response. This administration intends to leave no doubt in the minds of the American people or other peoples, it is said, of its determination to react vigorously to any threat—and not to be bluffed or blackmailed.

Serious Interest

Administration leaders reportedly feel that Soviet Premier Khrushchev understands their bluntly stated position and is acting with restraint. One reason, as seen here, may be his desire for an early, informal meeting with Kennedy as well as a later summit session; another may be serious interest on his part in doing something to bring the arms race under control.

At a minimum, Kennedy and his advisers believe Khrushchev wants to avoid a major military clash and to concentrate his main effort on opening up negotiations on such matters as the future of Berlin and disarmament problems.

In preparation for these negotiations, Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk are starting country by country and area by area re-examinations of U. S. foreign policies, parallel with their efforts to quiet the current crises in Laos and the Congo.

Initiate Review

A White House meeting Saturday is scheduled to initiate a top level review of U. S.-Soviet relations with Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, U. S. envoy to Moscow, sitting in with Kennedy, Rusk, and several experts on Soviet affairs.

As officials here see the overall policy prospect at present, the United States faces three basic requirements in preparation for entering along with its chief allies into negotiations with the Soviet Union:

1. To begin building greater political and economic unity in what they refer to as "the Atlantic community."

World Policy

At the heart of this problem is a need for greater NATO military strength and greater singleness of purpose among the Western allies. The Atlantic community development is said to be basic to U. S. world policy, especially since Kennedy wants the wealthy allied nations to share the burden of expanded aid programs for Africa, Asia and Latin America. Those are expected to be the major areas of contest with the Soviets in the next few years.

2. To reinforce U. S. military might and restore U. S. prestige as leader of the non-Communist world, making it clear to the Soviet Union and Red China that a willingness to negotiate settlements of outstanding problems does not mean weakness on the part of this country.

To begin bringing non-Communist nations, allied and neutral, into an integrated economic system, this objective involves domestic as well as foreign policy problems. Unemployment in the United States raises pressures for protective tariff measures, foreign aid cutbacks and other steps contrary to the administration's world aim.

Five-Year Plan

One specific authority U. S. officials reportedly want from Congress is to make five-year foreign aid commitments. To date U. S. aid programs for the most part have been on a year-to-year basis. Officials also want authority to change programs from time to time as the situations change in recipient countries.

Various specific problems already are under discussion within the administration—among them Red China. Officials see no present prospect of making fundamental changes in the U. S. policy of nonrecognition and opposition to United Nations membership for the Chinese Communists. The critical issue between the two nations is the Chinese Nationalist government of Formosa which the United States is firmly committed to support and the Communists seek to destroy.

Prime Minister Nehru of India is understood to have told American officials that he did not believe the leaders of Communist China would ever agree to back down on their demand for Formosa.

While U. S. policy on Red China is rigidly fixed—though Kennedy would like to find some way of increasing contacts between the two countries—officials here foresee serious difficulty in defeating a move in the United Nations next fall to seat the Red Chinese. As a result they believe that U. S. tactics will have to be more flexible than they have been in the past if this country is to continue to marshal the number of votes necessary in the U. N. General Assembly to keep Red China out.

With respect to negotiations with the Soviet Union on the future of Berlin, administration leaders have no idea yet what their approach will be except for their firm commitment to preserve the freedom and independence of West Berlin.

At present there is strong opposition to any reduction in the 11,000-man allied force in West Berlin. A cut to about 7,000 men was discussed with the Soviets at a foreign ministers conference in Geneva in 1958 but nothing came of this since the conference failed to reach any agreement on the Berlin problem.

Economy Geared to Growth of Prosperity, Economist Claims
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—An economic adviser of a New York publishing firm (McGraw-Hill) told Utah State University's annual conference of businessmen and educators Wednesday that America's economy is geared to a general expansion of prosperity.

But, added Dexter M. Keezer, "of course, if the American consuming public should become convinced that to live in the right way of the 'new frontier' we should abandon things which have been created in such abundance, and turn back toward the rigors of our original frontier life, these projections of economic expansion would be knocked into a cocked hat."

"I hope we will handle our riches wisely and generously, but all there is no escape from them without disastrous economic repercussions."

Room-Divider Furniture Ideal for Hi-Fi Cabinets
An almost endless variety of shelf backs are in oiled walnut finish. The supporting poles have a rich satin brass finish and are 24" long and 1 x 1" square. The installer will appreciate their hollow interiors which allow concealment of all hi-fi system connecting cables. Additional cabinets and shelves can be added to the installation at any time—only a screwdriver is required for assembly.

Unofficial Speed Record Set by X15
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Flight analysts say Air Force Maj. Bob White unintentionally set an unofficial world speed record of 2,275 miles per hour during a test run in the X15 rocket plane.

The speed attained by White in a flight last Tuesday was originally announced as 2,112 m.p.h. but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday a detailed study of flight data showed a record had been set and the maximum speed actually was 2,275 m.p.h. It eclipses the mark of 2,196 m.p.h. attained last Aug. 4.

White, who also holds the unofficial world altitude mark in the X15—136,500 feet—was not after a record on Tuesday's flight but was making stability control tests at 60,000 feet when the X15 outran her former speed in a shallow dive.

These Seven Cats, Now at a Humane Society shelter at Atlanta, Ga., have been willed $10,000 by their late owner, Mrs. W. K. Dunn. The money was left for the care and upkeep of the cats, which the shelter numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 for lack of knowledge of their names.

Condemned Man Will Learn of Death Date

Valentine's Day Picked for Setting Of Execution by Judge in California

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—One of California's record number of 33 condemned killers now awaiting execution will get an official Valentine's notice of the date he is to die.

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, was chosen Thursday by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum to set the execution date of Alexander Robillard XIV, one of seven men on San Quentin Prison's death row for killing policemen.

Today only one of the 33 condemned persons knows when he is due to die—April 12. He is Ronald Rittiger, 24, a life-long criminal who once begged for the gas chamber and later changed his mind.

Await Decision

Most of those in death row are awaiting decision of the California Supreme Court, which automatically reviews each capital case. Eight others once had dates with death, but their executions were stayed for further appeals.

The number awaiting the gas chamber is unprecedented in any state. It has revived pleas for abolition of the death sentence. Richard McGee, California director of corrections, has urged a six year moratorium on executions "to test the validity of the contention the death penalty is a deterrent."

Prisoners and their families are hopeful. Nothing more. They remember that the fight against the death penalty was at its height during Caryl Chessman's 12-year legal struggle to escape execution, and that he died in the gas chamber last May 2 as Los Angeles' "Red light bandit."

Different Reactions

"Individually, there are as many different reactions as we have men up there," said Associate Warden Dale Frady.

Of the 32 men in death row—the 33rd condemned person is Elizabeth Duncan who is held in the California Institution for Women at Corona—Rittiger is definitely resigned to his fate. Rittiger still studies mathematics in a University of California extension course but "feels that at this time there is no future for him."

He begged for death in 1956 in Marin County Superior Court after he hit another San Quentin prisoner with a steel drill. "I've done it three times already, and if I get away with this, I'll do it again," he declared.

He died, in 1959, killing another inmate in Soledad Prison.

Asks U.N. Seat For Red China

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home told the House of Lords Wednesday that the facts of international life require that Red China get a seat in the United Nations even though it has few of the credentials of a peace-loving nation.

Lord Home said Peiping has "smothered" Tibet, resisted all attempts at conciliation, and publicly stated its belief in war. "All that is true, but the facts of international life require that communist China should be seated in the United Nations," the British foreign secretary said.

Britain recognizes Red China. The United States recognizes the Formosa regime of President Chiang Kai-shek as China's legal government. Britain has stayed with the United States so far in opposing admission of Red China to the United Nations.

2 Bills Offered Amending Act Of Termination

Post-Crescent News Service

WASHINGTON — Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis.) Thursday introduced two bills to amend the act terminating the federal status of the Menominee Indian tribe. The bills were co-sponsored by Senator Wiley.

In a statement on the senate floor, Senator Proxmire said: "During the past few weeks the Menominee tribal delegates, Jerry Grignon and Al Dodge, have been in Washington to seek advice and assistance to help solve the many problems connected with the termination plan."

"Mr. Grignon and Mr. Dodge have worked very closely with my office, and I am happy to introduce the amendments which they consider necessary to achieve a successful termination. These measures are supported by resolutions of the tribal general council," Proxmire said.

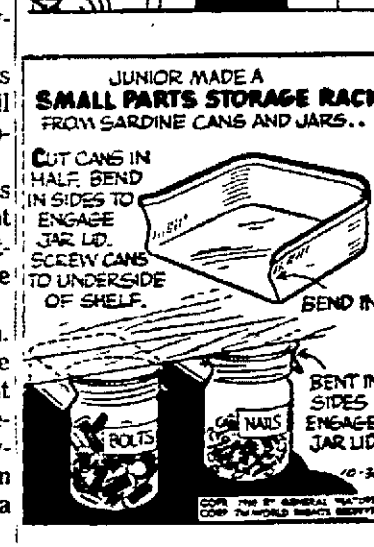

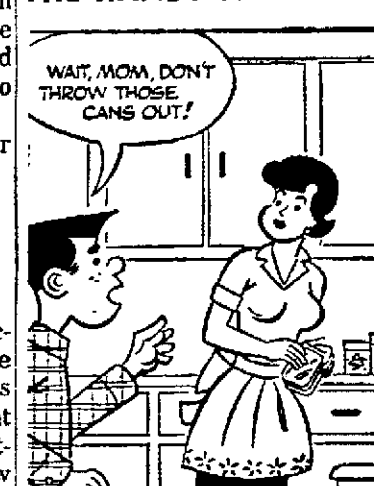

"The first bill which I am introducing today will provide a federal charter for the tribal corporation, authorization for a federal loan, some relief from taxation, and federal recognition of Wisconsin state statutes applying to the tribal government. The second bill would give the secretary of interior the power to postpone termination for a reasonable period if he determines this is necessary."

1-H to Close Forging Shop At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — International Harvester announced today that it will discontinue the operation of its forge shop at the Milwaukee works. But it denied that the entire plant, now employing some 2,800 workers, would be closed.

The shutdown, to be completed in six months, will affect about 160 employees, Harvester said.

Forge shop work now performed at Milwaukee for the construction equipment division will be transferred to the Chicago tractor works, I-H said, and forgings for farm equipment divisions will be transferred to other divisions.

In a letter to employees announcing the forge shop closing, division vice president Robert Bradley said that two other studies are being made which would affect the local plant's sheet metal and gear manufacturing departments, but "final decisions have not been reached."

"It is never possible for the company to guarantee that it will not sometime close anyone of its plants," Bradley said, "but within that broad limitation I can say to you that our company has no plan to close the Milwaukee works."

No Reduction In American Troops Abroad

the installations are obsolete and not whether dollars can be saved by abolishing them.

Kennedy's policy, in effect, reverses one of the last-minute moves the Eisenhower administration adopted to halt the outflow of gold and dollars.

The new Democratic President already has overturned another emergency Eisenhower action—the decision to bring home some 250,000 dependents of servicemen around the world.

Kennedy's refusal to consider troop reduction already has been made known quietly to allied governments who were worried about the possible withdrawal of some of the five U. S. Army divisions in West Germany.

Fears that such an American pullback might occur spread in Western Europe in December and January in the wake of public comment by Eisenhower and former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Many State Department officials are known to have opposed the bringing home the dependents move as well as any public hint that troops might be pulled out of Western Europe.

Drilled Wells Recommended Over Others

Less Chance of Contamination From Sewage

Wells are classified according to the way they are constructed—dug, driven, bored, and drilled wells.

All of them are simply a borehole deep enough to tap an underground water table. The first three, however, are usually shallow wells, less than fifty feet deep.

The dug well is generally considered obsolete today because many have been found to be polluted.

The dug well is the quickest and most economical means of getting water in areas where there are no rock formations and where the water is near the surface.

Bored wells are constructed with power augers that go through clay and silt and some types of sand to a short distance below the water table. The depth, however, is limited when caving of the hole stops further progress.

Deep Wells Best

The well with advantages over all other types is the drilled well. It may, for example, be constructed in a wide range of sizes—usually beginning at three inches—to accommodate the size of the pump needed. The well may be carried to almost any depth. The deeper water-bearing veins are the best because they are less likely to be polluted by ground water seepage or by septic tank effluent.

Drilled wells, the National Water Well Association explains, are constructed with well-drilling rigs capable of going through all types of earth and as deep as 1,000 feet, or even deeper.

Because well drilling is a skilled trade requiring years of experience and knowledge of geology, sanitation, and engineering, it is a primary responsibility of the builder to choose the drilling contractor with great care.

Women Model Originally Designed Spring Attire

Post-Crescent Photos

Women will wear originally designed and draped dresses this spring on Appleton's boardwalk which they made in Appleton Vocational School's newest class—draping and design.

Roy Baumruk, not a newcomer in this field, taught the course which met once a week. In it the women learned to design their own costumes, make the patterns and drape the material effectively and attractively. A prerequisite for the class was that the women have a working knowledge of sewing.

The seamstresses have nearly graduated and soon will be striking out on their own.

Hadassah Chapter To Honor Founder

A movie, "The Life of Henrietta Szold", will be shown when Appleton Chapter of Hadassah meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Social Center, Atlantic and Bateman Streets. The program will honor the memory of the founder of Hadassah and the Henrietta Szold Centennial.

Miss Szold devoted her life to improving health conditions in Israel, known then as Palestine. She founded the first hospital without restriction as to color or creed. Her efforts also brought about the progress that enabled the establishment of the new Hadassah - Hebrew University Medical Center. In addition, Miss Szold founded and supervised Youth Aliyah program which brought 100,000 displaced children to Israel and taught them to become useful citizens.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Jack Shapiro, Mrs. Joseph Shiff, Mrs. Jacob Shilerat and Mrs. Abraham Sigman.

ALGOMA — Miss Marjorie May Waterstreet, daughter of Mrs. Alvin Waterstreet, route 1, became the bride of Calvin E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Johnson, 326 W. Union St., Waupaca, Jan. 28 at St. John Lutheran Church, Rankin.

The Rev. E. A. Wians officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John Beiting, Algoma.

Miss Ellen Schroeder, Appleton, was maid of honor and Miss Sherry Selvy, Milwaukee, Miss Norma Waterstreet, Chicago, and Miss Jo Anne Johnson, Waupaca, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

Best man was Richard Radley, Waupaca, and groomsmen were Warner Halverson and Dennis Bonikowske, Waupaca, and Norbert Waterstreet, Algoma. Gordon Jensen, Madison, David Nottleson, Waupaca, and Don Kosticha, Algoma, shared ushering duties.

A reception was held at Hillside Palace, Casco. After a trip through the southern states, the couple will reside in Panama City, Fla., where the bridegroom is stationed in the air force.

The bride is a graduate of Casco High School and Bellin Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Green Bay. She was employed at St. Mary Hospital, Green Bay.

Her husband is a graduate of Waupaca High School and attended Dana College, Blair, Neb., and Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

Edgewater Club Skates Under Full Moon

Wearing ski sweaters, parkas and mittens, members of Oshkosh Edgewater Dance Club held a skating and coasting party Saturday evening at Legion-on-the-Lake. A huge bonfire helped keep the group warm. A small orchestra played at the edge of the rink and later played in the clubhouse for dancing.

Members of the committee were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schroeder, co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Biebel, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metz, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Burton King.

At left, Burt King gallantly tightens his wife's skating shoes in preparation for taking off on a spree around Lake Winnebago. Below, a blazing log fire was a welcome spot to congregate at the edge of the skating rink on a cold winter evening. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metz and Mrs. Carl Schroeder take a recess to warm their hands.

An almost-full yellow moon obligingly came up to add to the gaiety of the scene.

The Ailing House Great Care Needed in Removal

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

REMOVING LINOLEUM WALL COVERING FROM DRY WALL

Question: How can I remove linoleum - type covering from a dry wall?

Answer: Exercise great care in removal: pry a corner loose very carefully, and tear down so that backing material is left on wall, using a firm, steady motion. Otherwise the paper, or the dry wall itself, will also be removed. Soaking linoleum paste, (if water-soluble type; experiment) after getting corner of linoleum loosened, can help ease removal.

WHITE FROST NEAR BOTTOM OF CHIMNEY

Question: We bought a home a year and a half ago. Since then we have noticed a white frost-like affair appear near the bottom of the chimney. The brick and mortar flake off beneath this. We had a repair man come in; he pointed out the chimney and painted with a red oxide paint, last May. We had a basement dehumidifier going all summer, until the furnace was started. But the condition is there again. What will remedy this?

Answer: This is the condition known as efflorescence; it is due to moisture working through brick or masonry materials and carrying alkaline salts to the surface. Does the chimney have a fire-clay or stainless-steel flue lining? To remove the deposit, scrub with a wire brush. The usual remedy is washing with a concrete and masonry cleaning and etching preparation, available at masonry supplies dealers, following manufacturer's label instructions carefully.

MOLD ON TWO CEMENT BASEMENT BLOCKS

Question: We have a new home, a year old. In the basement two cement blocks had white spots on them, to which I didn't pay much attention at the time. I applied two coats of cement masonry paint to the walls. The two blocks have a gray mold which bled through the paint. The mold is present in spite of a dehumidifier running constantly in the basement. What would I have to do to remedy this condition?

Answer: From your description, the two faulty cement blocks probably can be waterproofed. First, you should remove all the present finish from these blocks, using paint remover and vigorous wire brushing. Then apply one of the epoxy-type waterproofing preparations available at hardware stores or masonry supplies dealers. This should prevent further moisture from seeping through so that the new finish will be unaffected.

Telephone, Doorbell Trap Typical American Hubby

BY HAL BOYLE

YOURVILLE, U.S.A. (AP) —

One morning recently Wilbur Peeble, average American husband, woke up with a cold. His wife, Trellis Mae, told him:

"I'm not going to let you go to the office. You just stay home in bed and rest."

"I have a lot of shopping to do in town, so you'll have to place to yourself all day. It'll be nice and quiet."

Heads for Bed

After fixing his breakfast, Trellis Mae left. Taking his morning paper, Wilbur sank back into bed. "Ah-h-h," he sighed gratefully. Then the doorbell sounded. Wilbur grunted, got up, wrapped his elves. I don't care what you do with them."

Back he stomped to bed. The phone rang. It was a lady with a message for Trellis Mae. It was a long message. It took Wilbur half an hour to write it down.

The long trip from the bedroom to the front door was wearing him out. He took his covers and moved to the living room sofa.

The doorbell sounded. It was a woman in the apartment building collecting for a charity. The phone rang. It was a little boy asking, "Can I talk to Mabel?"

"Wrong number," growled Wilbur. The little boy with the wrong number called back four more times in search of Mabel.

The doorbell sounded. It was another lady collecting for another charity. Before Wilbur could reply to her the phone rang.

"The cookies you ordered from the Girl Scouts have arrived," said a small voice. "Shall we bring them over today?"

"No," said Wilbur. "Give them to the Brownies, give them to the

Dr. Travell Called Fine Physician

BY JOY MILLER

AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—From Elizabeth Blackwell to Janet Travell, American women have come a long way in medicine.

Elizabeth Blackwell was the first to get a ladylike but determined foot in the door of a U. S. medical school. Immediately after graduating her with honors in 1849, her alma mater in Geneva, N. Y., slammed the door shut. But a precedent had been set, and women who wanted to be allowed to learn the art of healing made the most of it.

The recent appointment of Dr. Travell as President Kennedy's personal physician was a shot in the arm for efforts to increase the number of women in the medical profession.

Will Increase Interest

Dr. Marion Fay, dean and president of the 110-year-old Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, only women's medical college in the country, wrote the President that "by his single appointment he has done more to focus the attention of young women on medicine as a career than medical educators have been able to do."

Last year the number of women who graduated from all approved medical schools was 405, about 5 per cent, or 1 in 20, of the total M.D. graduating class. Except for the World War II period when the ratio rose to 1 in 10, this has been a constant figure for many years.

Stays in Profession

Dr. Claire F. Ryder of the U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, president of the American Medical Women's Association, says factual data has disproved the old argument that a woman frequently drops her career for marriage and family, thereby wasting her training and depriving a potential man practitioner of it. Nine out of 10 women remain in the profession, she says, the same ratio as with men medical school graduates.

A Fine Physician

What is a male medical viewpoint? Dr. E. Vincent Askey, Los Angeles, president of the American Medical Association says: "It was very reassuring to the leaders of American medicine that President Kennedy chose to appoint as his official physician a woman, Dr. Travell, in whom he has the greatest confidence."

"Dr. Travell is well known to her colleagues in the American Medical Association as a fine practitioner of medicine. The fact that the President's physician is a woman is unimportant; more important is the fact that she is capable and well trained. The President's action in selecting her exemplifies the belief we all hold that everyone should be treated by the physician of his own choice."

Clothes for Tiny Babes

By Patricia Scott

Two very necessary layette items are a kimono and a sack. If you, or someone you know is expecting a baby, these two little garments will be wonderful to have ready for the baby's arrival. They're simple to make and can be made by hand or machine.

Kimono: You'll need: 1½ yards of 35-inch wide cotton flannel, wool challis or flate crepe or ¾ yard of 39-inch fabric (same yardage is necessary for lining); ¾ yard of ½ inch wide ribbon for 2 bows; 2 dot snappers (plier kit type).

Sack: You'll need: ½ yard of 35-inch wide quilted satin, taffeta, or cotton — or ¾ yard of 39-inch wide quilted fabric; same baste lining to kimono, right sides together. Machine stitch neck, front and lower edge, leaving a small opening at lower back edge to turn (or sew by hand with tiny back stitches). Trim seams to ¼ inch, trim away corners and clip underarm curve. Now, turn right side out and slip-stitch opening closed. Slip-stitch basted edges of sleeve on kimono and lining together.

Cut 2 pieces of ribbon each 5½ inches long. Make bows. Baste ribbon to outside of left front ¾ inch from neck edge. Apply dot snapper at center of ribbon. Apply other half of snapper on right front so that it corresponds with its other half.

To make pattern: For back, cut a rectangle 22½" x 11". Then following the diagram, fill in back yardage required for lining: ¼ yard of ½-inch wide ribbon; one piece using these dimensions: 21½ inches center back; 8½ inches shoulder seam; 5¼ inches sleeve edge. The 7-inch arrow from underarm curve to center back is a guide to follow when shaping the piece.

For front, cut a rectangle 22½" x 12", as illustrated. Fill in the shape of the front with these dimensions: 21 inches center front; 8½ inches shoulder seam; 5¼ inches sleeve edge. For center front edge, shape guide.

To make: Join front and back at shoulder seams and underarm curve. Clip seams at underarm curve. Turn under and baste seam allowances at sleeve edges, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents to cover printing and handling costs.

To make: Make exactly as the kimono, using only one bow at the neck.

Groggy Hawks Seek to Regroup Forces for Game at Indiana

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Several Big Ten basketball teams, notably Iowa, must regroup their forces Saturday after a 10-65 blasting Monday night in the conference. The Hawkeyes, ranked No. 9 in the AP poll, lost four regulars for academic laxity at a time they needed them most in trying to protect, or improve, a second-place 4-1 record in the conference.

Needs Replacements
Iowa invades Indiana Saturday night in the key game of a full-schedule. In other encounters, Wisconsin (1-4) is at Northwestern (2-5) for a regionally televised contest (3:30 p.m. CST). No. 1 ranked Ohio State (7-0) is a Michigan State (1-6), Illinois (4-2) at Purdue (5-2) and Michigan (0-5) at Minnesota (4-4).

Iowa must find starting replacement for sophomores Frank Al-

Foresees New Gate Record For Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox have reached two milestones.

President Bill Veeck turned 47 years of age Thursday. And the click of the club's turnstiles for the 1961 season promises to break records.

Veeck, champion ticket-selling traveler in the Midwest, took a second breath after trying to blow out 47 candles on his birthday cake and announced that advance ticket sales have reached $1.4 million — about $100,000 more than when the season opened last year.

Sees New Record
"It looks as if we'll break all existing records for home attendance," he beamed. "By the time of our home opener we should have $1.75 million in advance sales."

The Sox attracted a club record of 1,644,460 customers for home games last season.

"Our advance sale indicates we'll beat that," said Veeck. "Helping will be four more home games now that Minnesota and Los Angeles are in the league."

Bays Pick Milwaukee Operations Director, Sign Offensive End

Col. O. C. Krueger Replaces Schwartz; Tunnell Won't Quit

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Col. O. C. Krueger, "mayor" of the third largest city in Maryland and a combat veteran of World War II and the Korean war, will head the Packers' operations in Milwaukee.

Em Tunnell isn't going to retire.

And, the Bays' 16th draft choice, end Clarence Mason, has officially joined the Green Bay flock.

These varied items trickled out of the Packer office of Coach GM Vince Lombardi today.

The new Milwaukee position was created when Bob Schwartz, present Milwaukee ticket director, resigned to accept a new position. Lombardi said Milwaukee operations are being stepped up, tying in with the increased attendance there.

Post Commander
Col. Krueger presently is post commander of Fort Meade, Md., a "community" of about 50,000 people. He will retire from the Army Feb. 28 and start his new duties at the Packer office in County Stadium March 1. He will be in Green Bay next week for a meeting of the Packer Board of directors.

The energetic colonel, a native of Buffalo, was a graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of 1931. He was co-captain of West Point's basketball team.

Tunnell, the league's grand old man of defense, came out from his home in Philadelphia to talk about scouting for the Packers and next season's contract and certificate from Lombardi. Tunnell was the first Packer to receive appointment to the "Hall" since Tony Canadeo in the early 1950's although Em made his reputation with the Giants.

Tunnell retired. "No, he's not going to retire," said Lombardi. And Em, himself, says he's not giving it a thought.

Saturday's Game:
St. Mary at Marquette.

Thursday's Result:
Premontre 59, Springs 46.

Wednesday's Result:
Pennington 70, St. John 37.

The Menasha St. Mary High School basketball team returns to Fox Valley Catholic Conference action Saturday night, seeking to protect its lead.

St. Mary, which holds a 1-game lead over runnerup Abbot Pennington, travels to Marquette for a return engagement with the third-place Central Catholic Cavaliers. The Zephyrs won easily (87-66) in their first meeting.

The Zephyrs' Bill Becker suffered a sprained right ankle in their latest game — a 63-55 win over Lourdes. It is expected that Becker will see only limited action if he plays at all Saturday night.

2 Leading Scorers
The affair will match the FVCC's two leading scorers, Jack Early and Gerry Laemmrich. Marquette's Early has scored 152 points in seven league games to date for a 21.7 point-per-game average. St. Mary's Laemmrich has tallied 104 points in a like number of games for an average of 14.9.

Jack Early's older brother, Bill, and Paul Drees are two other parent scorers in the Cavalier lineup. Bill has scored 56 points and Drees has tallied 79. Dick Nordost follows with 22.

Coach Ralph McClone's starting lineup remains doubtful. He has been using the platoon system the last few games and this trend is expected to continue.

Clarence Mason will be watched for his possibilities as a defensive back.

bank from season ticket sales. "We figure we have a good of-and all but four of their college defensive line and we are not worried about our quarterback situation," said Coach Norm MacLennan. "We figure if we lose we may as well do it with players who can help us in the future."

General Manager Bert Rose told Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce members and ticket-promoting "minutemen" that Viking sales have reached 23,400 — by far the heaviest advance sale for a first year club in NFL history. The club expects easily to hit the 25,000 required by the NFL.

"I doubt that any organization anywhere in the nation has done more in helping a franchise than the 'minutemen' have done for us," Rose said.

The group is an organization of Twin Cities businessmen who have buttonholed thousands of individuals and companies in the area selling tickets for the Vikings.

FVL Quintet Wins, 61-42, Over Onalaska

Hintz Scores 22 As Second Unit Plays Most of Game

ONALASKA — Fox Valley Lutheran High School's basketball team opened its 3-game road trip Friday night with a 61-42 victory over Onalaska Lutheran.

The second string did the job for the Foxes, enabling the regulars to gain extra rest for tonight's Minnesota battle against the Vikings.

Junior Darwin Hintz set the pace with his career high of 22 points last night as the Foxes evened their record at 8-8. Arvin Klemp and Stu Boese each contributed 10 points. Klemp sank one long shot each quarter.

Breaks 8-8 Tie
Teaming with the top-scoring trio for FVL were Gene Dobberstein and Bruce Landsverk. This group went all the way except for the first five minutes of the fourth quarter when the regulars got in for a warm-up.

FVL broke an 8-8 tie when the game was five minutes old and stayed ahead the rest of the game. Hintz, who displayed a good rebounding touch, accounted for the lead basket. He scored 11 of his team's 16 first-quarter points.

Ken Seebold scored 14 points for Onalaska Lutheran, which became a 4-year school in 1960-1. This was the first meeting of the two schools.

Cage Tourney Is Scheduled For Kaukauna

The twenty-second annual Kaukauna High School Athletic Council basketball tournament will be held March 6-12.

Entries are now being accepted, according to Tournament Director Stan Beguhn. At least eight Fox Valley teams are expected to enter.

The Kaukauna Athletic club won the 1960 tournament, with the Menasha Athletic Club as runnerup.

During tournament week, two games will be played each night in the Kaukauna gym.

Trophies and individual medals will be awarded to the top four teams. Awards will also go to the all-tournament team.

Groat Signs 1961 Pirate Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Shortstop Dick Groat, the National League's batting king and most valuable player, today signed his 1961 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Groat won the batting title on the last day of the season, beating out Norm Larker of Los Angeles .325 to .323.

Bobcats Face Tough Millers, IHL Division Leaders, Tonight

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Bobcats face what Player-Coach John Mayasich has termed "the greatest challenge in our history" when they oppose the Minneapolis Millers, Western Division leaders of the International Hockey League, at the Brown County Arena tonight. The face-off is scheduled for 8:30.

Minneapolis, far out front in the IHL's Western race, has won 29 and lost only 8 of its last 39 games, along with two ties. In the process, the Millers established a league record with a 13-game victory streak.

The Bobcats, on the way to dethroning crosstown rival St. Paul, are keyed by Player-Coach Ken Yackel, former All-American at the University of Minnesota.

Yackel, also a football and baseball standout at Minnesota, is the IHL's No. 3 scorer with 83 points in 53 games. Two of his teammates also are in the league's full Bobcat starter.

C-I Division Semi-Finals Slated Tonight

St. John Tourney's
Class A Title
Game Set Monday

MENASHA — The Church-Industrial division semi-finals are on tap in the St. John Amateur Basketball Tournament tonight with St. John meeting Appleton Coated Paper at 7:45 and Bergstrom's tangling with Wanserski's at 9 o'clock.

The consolation and championship affairs will be played at 1:15 and 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Green Bay Reliance will meet St. John for the Class A division championship Monday night at 8:15. The Class A consolation will start at 7 p.m.

One Class B quarter-final contest is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday. Nee-Vin Club will meet Reeds-ville for the right to play Kenosha in a semi-final test at 8:15 p.m. Saturday. The other semi-final game will match the Menasha Blues and Two Rivers at 7 p.m., Saturday.

Played Sunday

The Class B championship and consolation games will be played Sunday evening. Saturday night's losers meet at 7 p.m. for third place, and Saturday night's winners play for the crown at 8:15.

The Blues, paced by Ron Abel's 26 points, moved into the Class B semi-finals Monday night with a 74-65 victory over Jitter's and Joe's. Ralph Kiesow hit 24 points as he led Bergstrom into the Church-Industrial semi-finals with a 58-52 victory over Marathon.

Time Out with Mike Drew

Look who's sharing the Mid-Eastern Conference basketball lead with rugged Neenah and Kimberly — Shawano's small Indians.

If you had suggested to Shawano Coach Rudy Ellis a couple of months ago that his little fellows would be in first place at this stage of the season he'd have suggested you take a long rest.

The Indians had lost their only big boy, 6-4 Scott Picart, by transfer before the start of the season. They proceeded to drop four of their first five games (three of their initial five M-E starts).

Today, the Indians appear to have as good a chance as anyone to bring home all the M-E marbles.

Little Height

Ellis has put them where they are without the aid of much height and with no outstanding scorer. They've posted five consecutive M-E wins, and seven triumphs in their last eight league starts. They're 9-5 overall.

The only regular over six feet tall is 6-1½ senior center Rog Prickette. Forward Steve Heller is 6-0 and forward Lee Otto—Shawano's top scorer—stands 5-11.

Guards Tim McGuire and Tom Wagner are both just 5-8 as is leading reserve Don Meyer. Top reserve Lee Dallman stands 5-10, but springs 30 inches—to rim level—with a standing jump.

Defense and hustle have been winning for Shawano, long with varsity teams had "B" averages, an ability to cop the close ones. Three of the seven victories have been by four points or less.

"We've used as many as seven different defenses in one game," says Ellis. "I'm from the old school which says that the best offense is a good defense."

Relying mainly on a checking man-for-man, the Indians have held every opponent under 57 points in their last eight M-E starts.

Otto has been averaging 15 points a game and, with Prickette, is the club's top rebounder. Otto, Prickette and McGuire (the No. 2 scorer) all played on the "B" team last year. "They've come a long way," says their coach. Heller is the only returning regular.

"Our rebounding has been the big surprise," Ellis observes. "Since losing the first Neenah game, we've outrebounded every opponent. And, that's despite the fact that most of our boys are playing against fellows inches taller."

Balance Helps

The scoring balance has helped too. "Since Christmas we've had about four fellows in double figures every game. Otto stands fifth (15.0) and McGuire twelfth (10.9) in current M-E scoring. Ellis is in his fourth year as

UW-M Cager Sets Pace in Scoring Race

Eight Teams Still
For WSCC Title

OSHKOSH (AP)—Dave Vincent of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, continues to set the scoring pace in the Wisconsin State College Conference basketball race with 215 points, scored on 93 field goals and 29 field goals.

Don Braun of Platteville is in second place with 205 points. Milwaukee's Jerry Grochowski is third with 195, followed by Art Nelson of Superior with 171 and J.P. Fisher of Whitewater with 163.

Eight of the 10 conference teams still are in contention for the pennant but the list is expected to be trimmed this weekend when 10 league games will be played.

Stevens Point continues to set the pace with a 6-1 record. Superior is one-half game behind. UWM and Whitewater are tied for third with 5-3 records while La Crosse has 4-3 and Platteville and Eau Claire have 4-4 marks and Oshkosh is 3-4.

Stevens Point plays at River Falls (0-8) tonight; Whitewater is at Superior, Platteville travels to Eau Claire, Milwaukee is guest of La Crosse and Oshkosh is at Stout (1-6).

Saturday games send Milwaukee to Superior, Oshkosh to La Crosse, Platteville to Stout, Whitewater to River Falls and Stevens Point to Eau Claire.

Grace Hansel Hits 553 Aggregate For Loop Honors

Grace Hansel shot a 553 threesome for Tornow's Market in the Tag-a-Long League at the 41 Bowl earlier in the week. One of her games was a 203.

The top singleton was a 214 by Marion Helms for Flagstone Bar. She finished with a 503. Pierce Auto (40-20) leads the league by five games. Other honor scores: Helen Fietzer, 510; Elda Bertschy, 203.

The Shorts (39-24) won three games and padded their lead to seven lines in the Valley Iron Works circuit at the Barn. There were no honor scores.

Syracuse Wins Third Straight

Pettit Coaches Hawks, Scores 40 in Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Suddenly the Syracuse Nats are riding a three-game winning streak in the National Basketball Association and the Philadelphia Warriors are down three in a row.

Coach Alex Hannum, whose Nats' latest victory was a 136-126 triumph over the Warriors Thursday night, attributes a great deal of the success to the full-time availability of guard Larry Costello.

Costello, who had been sidelined from time to time over the past month with a series of injuries, led Syracuse with 24 points, but scoring honors went to Philadelphia's Will Chamberlain who collected 46.

Seven Behind

The defeat left the Warriors seven games behind Eastern Division leader Boston, which was idle Thursday night. Syracuse, in third place, picked up a game on the Warriors and now trails Philadelphia by seven.

Syracuse picked up a game on fourth-place New York, which lost 119-115 to Cincinnati in the opener of the Convention Hall double-header.

In the only other game Thursday night, Bob Pettit, filling in for Coach Paul Seymour, and playing as well, sparked the Western Division leading St. Louis Hawks to a 123-113 victory over Los Angeles by scoring 40 points and grabbing 26 rebounds.

Youthful Trio Holds Lead in Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A trio of young sharpshooters held a skimpy one-stroke lead as a whole army of par wreckers headed into today's second round of the $30,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Out front with four-under-par 66s in the opening session were Bill Collins, Dave Marr and Max Rudolph, but 44 others who were within striking distance.

Among those only a single stroke back was Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., whose only big golf payoff came when Joe Campbell sank a $50,000 hole in one in the 1960 Palm Springs tournament. Sullivan and Campbell had agreed in advance to divide the money if either shot an ace.

Also in the 67 group were Don January, who grabbed $50,000 for a Palm Springs hole in one last week; Don Fairfield and veterans Jay Hebert, Tommy Bolt and Julius Boros.

Right along with defending champion Jack Fleck at 68 were Gary Loustalot of Sacramento, Calif., who hasn't won any money in his one month on the tour, and part time circuit rider Bob Duden of Portland, Ore., who putts between his legs croquet style.

The others with first round 68s were Stan Leonard, Henry Williams, Tommy Aaron, Paul Hareney, Al Balding and hometown pro Ken Kier.

Semi-Final Round Starts in Women's Palm Beach Meet

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An upset specialist and a tournament newcomer are opponents today in a semifinal of the Palm Beach Women's Amateur Championship.

Doris Phillips of Belleville, N. J., eliminated Curtis Cupper Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., 1-up Thursday. Then in a quarter-final she took a 19-hole 1-up victory from Alice Dye, Indianapolis golfer who had upset the tournament medalist, Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C. Miss Phillips' semifinal adversary is Jeannie Dobbins of Miami Beach.

The other semifinal matches Judy Bell, a Curtis Cup team member from Wichita, Kan., and Barbara Williams of Richmond, Calif.

Miss Dobbins won a 4 and 3 quarter-final match with Maureen Crum of Plant City, Fla.

Miss Williams outshot Patsy Hahn, Wilmington, Del., 5 and 4, and Miss Bell defeated Nancy Roth, Hollywood, Fla., 4 and 3, after Miss Roth eliminated defending champion Barbara Fitton of Hamilton, Ohio, 4 and 3.

Los Angeles — L. C. Morgan, rolled over Zion (1-5), 72-45. Kent 142½, Youngstown, Ohio, outpointed Anderson poured home 31 points ed Willie Morton, 146½; San Jose, for the victors, Rog Wendlandt Calif., 12.

DiMaggio Looks Forward to Spring Training Like Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, retired outfield great, will rejoin the New York Yankees March 9 for two weeks of spring training at St. Petersburg, Fla., working with manager Ralph Houk and batting coach Wally Moses in assisting the players.

DiMaggio, 46, is taking a baseball vacation from his job with manufacturers' representative (V. E. # 500 Attend Banquet Buhl Tells Old-Timers' Fete He's Aiming for 20 Victories

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bob Buhl, 16-9 record last year and 15-9 in 1959. He said in an interview Thursday night that he was in top shape and sure he could come through with his first 20-victory season.

Buhl was honored at the annual Old Timers banquet at the Elks Club which drew a crowd of 500 fans. Billy Bruton, who was traded by the Braves to Detroit, recently, also was honored. Buhl got a plaque and Bruton a pen and pencil set.

Top Percentage

Buhl was honored for possessing the highest percentage (.621) among active National League pitchers, based on a record of 100 victories against 61 defeats. He had an earned run average of 3.09 for the Braves in 1960, the best of the club. He saw service in 239 innings and in 39 games.

Other speakers at the banquet included Ray Schalk, former Chicago White Sox catcher. Ken Keltner, former Cleveland third baseman. Fred Lindstrom, Northwest baseball coach and a third baseman for the New York Giants for many years and Unser Joe Hauser, an old Milwaukee favorite and Braves shortstop Johnny Logan.

Henry Upsets Orlando Sirola

Top-Seeded Savitt Wins Opener in U. S. Indoor Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Crawford Henry blasted big Orlando Sirola of Italy, 6-3, 7-5, in the first round of the National Indoor Championship Thursday night and thus knocked out one of the prime favorites for the title.

Sirola, the No. 1 seeded foreigner, and the man who scored the decisive victory over MacKay in last year's interzone final in the Davis Cup said "the lights hurt me. When I would look one way, the ball would come the other way."

Otherwise, the first round went off in routine fashion. Dick Savitt of New York, top domestic seed, had no trouble with Bailey Brown of Bronxville, N. Y., 6-0, 6-0. Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, No. 2, crushed Evert Schneider of the Netherlands, 6-0, 6-2.

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., No. 3, halted Robert Brulot of Belgium, 6-2, 6-4, and Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., No. 4, dropped Sid Schwartz of Long Beach, N. Y., 6-3, 6-3.

Billy Knight of England, seeded behind Sirola in the foreign draw, downed Mike Green of Miami Beach, 6-3, 6-4. Rafael Osuna of Mexico, No. 3, vanquished Alvin Hollander of New York, 6-3, 6-2, and Pierre Darmon of France, No. 4, defeated Karl Hedrick of Freeport, N. Y., 6-4, 6-1.

New Week's Games: Conkey's vs. I.P.C. Merholtz vs. Slim Otto's. Bleier's vs. Pond's. Fox Valley Cab vs. Unmuth's.

Bleier's and Pond's set the stage for their Major AAA Basketball League clash next Thursday as both recorded victories last night.

Bleier's, unbeaten league leader, edged IPC, 57-52 and Pond's defeated Unmuth's, 66-36. Other games saw Slim Otto's record a 64-58 win over Fox Valley Cab and Conkey's topped Merholtz, 57-35.

A 19-point effort in the last period gave Bleier's the win over IPC. Bleier's trailed 15-10 at the end of the first period and took a narrow 26-25 lead at the half.

Jim Maahs paced Bleier's with 20 points, 12 coming on free throws. Winfield Bearse had 25 markers for IPC.

Pond's got off to a slow start hitting only five points in the first period but wheeled in 45 points in the last half. Unmuth's managed only 19 markers in the final two periods.

OSU Sweeps Statistics Sheet

Lucas Moves Up On Dischinger in Big 10 Scoring

CHICAGO (AP)—How good can you get? Unbeaten Ohio State for the second straight week has swept the Big Ten basketball statistical sheet clean.

The top-ranked Buckeyes (7-0) will take this awesome record against lowly Michigan State (1-6) Saturday.

Average points a game—88.1, Illinois second with 76.5; average defensive yield—59.8, Iowa second with 60.8; rebounding—51.3 a game, Illinois second with 50; field goal percentage—49.5, Iowa second with .437; free throw percentage—78.5, Purdue second with .753.

263 Average

The Buckeyes' Jerry Lucas, hitting 51 points in his last two games, is closing in on Purdue's Terry Dischinger in the individual scoring race. Dischinger has a 26.3 average and Lucas 24.8, with Indiana's Walt Bellamy taking over third with 23.0.

Bellamy has regained the rebounding lead with 16.2 a game to 15.4 for Lucas. The latter stays No. 1 in field goal accuracy with a .623 mark with Dischinger second at .620.

Dischinger has made good on 60 out of 65 free throws for a .923—a percentage matched by Ohio State's Larry Siegfried with 36 out of 39 hits. Lucas is .824 in this department.

Robertson Rink Is Beaten but Retains Lead

The Cal Falk rink handed "Dobbie" Robertson his first loss (11-10) in the Appleton Curling Club's Berggren event this week, but the latter retained his 1-game lead.

Bob Wirth missed a chance to tie for the lead as he bowed to George Klein, 13-6. Richard LaBore tied Wirth for second place with a 9-7 win over Ted Gilbert.

In the final match, Bill Hart nipped Dan Steinberg, Jr., 8-7.

In the Pond Event, LaBore broke a 3-way tie for the lead by scoring a 3-4 victory over George Klein. Horace Taggart and Joe Schulenburg, who had been deadlocked for first, lost to Bill Urban (11-10 in 11 ends) and Harry Hoefel (10-5), respectively. Taggart lost despite laying a 7-end.

John Snyder tied for second place with an 11-9 win over Nick Engler.

In the Taggart Event, Bill Schleisner suffered his first defeat (8-7 to Don Kurey) and fell into co-leadership with Fred Allen (a forfeit winner over Bob Winkler).

Dud Eisele defeated Al Adams, 15-5; and Bob Farrell decisively, 13-5.

Student Managers' Late Arrival Forces Delay in Game

The advantages of private transportation aren't all they're cracked up to be, a pair of Menasha St. Mary High School basketball managers can attest.

Students Ron Pysora and Dave Humski did not travel with the team to Oshkosh for the Lourdes game Wednesday night, assuring Coach Ralph McClone that they had arranged for a ride for themselves and the basketball equipment.

The managers failed to get a ride—a fact which some frantic telephoning uncovered as game-time neared and no uniforms were on the scene. New travel arrangements were hastily made—and the game wasn't held up for much more than 15 minutes.

CPI, Pond's Remain Unbeaten in YMCA High School Action

CPI and Pond's (2-0) remained unbeaten in second round play in Boys Basketball League Tuesday.

CPI posted a 70-68 double overtime victory over Retson's (1-1).

Kent Anderson and Don Marx scored 22 for the victors. Paul Neumann tallied 21 to lead Retson's. Pond's was paced by Dennis Garvey's 17 points in a 47-44 victory over Berggren's (0-2). Dan DeDecker of the losers hit 13.

Leath's (1-1) tipped Hoepfner's (1-1), 60-56, as Gene Bloedorn of the winners wired 13. Dave Doerfler hit 23 for Hoepfner. Dale Realty (1-1) topped Appleton Motor (0-2), 63-40. Dale's Marty Kapp scored 20 points. Dave Belling of the losers wired 15.

Viking Mat, Swim Teams End Recess

Grinnell Wrestlers Will Invade Alexander Gym

The Lawrence College wrestling and swimming teams end a 3-week recess, Saturday afternoon.

The Vike wrestlers make their first start of the second semester as hosts to Grinnell in Alexander Gym at 1:30 p.m. Lawrence's swimmers (varsity and freshmen) compete in a dual meet at Beloit.

With the attainment of eligibility of Bill Stedman (as a first-semester sophomore), the Vikes will be able to field a complete mat lineup. Stedman, who has had little competitive experience, will wrestle at 147 pounds.

Scott Adam will wrestle at 123, looking for his first victory of the season. In the other classes for Lawrence, it will be "Hap" Sumner (2-2) at 130; "Chico" Kauffman (4-2), at 137; Jim Eastman (1-1), at 157; Tom Rossi (4-1) at 167; Tom Barton (0-4) at 177; Captain Bob Smith (7-0) at 191; and Pete Thomas (4-1), heavyweight.

The Vike grapplers are 1-2 in dual competition, besides placing fifth in a quadrangular and second in an 11-team state meet.

Grinnell's top wrestler is Dick Harris (3-1), who placed second in the conference at 167 last year. Harris may be moved to the 157-pound class for Saturday's match.

Grinnell has lost four in a row, but one of its defeats was a 21-20 affair against St. Olaf.

In Lawrence's first swim meet against Beloit this season, the Bucs won, 57-39. Backstroke Jack Grenzsbach, who swam on at winning relay team against Beloit in December, has dropped from the Vike squad.

Chris Vogel, outstanding sophomore who won the 440-yard freestyle and 200-yard individual medley against Beloit the first time, will lead the Vike team.

City of Aztalan Will be Rebuilt But Puzzles May Never be Known

BY CHARLES HOUSE Post-Crescent Staff Writer AZTALAN — On this site of an ancient village, once the most important in what has become Wisconsin, a new state park is in the making. In the years to come, it will be visited by millions of people including scientists and scholars — and all may wonder over a strange set of puzzles yet to be solved.

It is known that a large body of people came to this place in Jefferson County sometime between 1400 and 1500 A.D. They built a great walled city along the banks of the Crawfish River near what is now Lake Mills. They erected homes of adobe — strong, good homes, far superior to the wigwams of the Indians of the area surrounding them.

Then they settled down to live a sedentary, apparently peaceful life. Here they stayed for a century. Then they disappeared. Puzzle number one: where did they go?

One of the tales of local Indians, handed down over the centuries by story-tellers, is that one day these highly cultured people simply burned their village and moved away. Why?

It is known that these strange people we now call for the name of the community, Aztalans, numbered about 1,000 at the time of their withdrawal from this site.

Such a large group must have left a trail of campsites, yet none has turned up.

Until now, only 22 burials have been found, and 11 of those people have been buried in a crematorium directly within the confines of the city. Archeologists, carefully studying the area, found that the Aztalans had built a 12 by 5 foot hut of saplings interwoven with willow sticks. The unlucky 11 individuals—one of them a young woman—were placed in the hut and it was fired, then covered with earth.

No Burial Ground

Puzzle number two lies in the absence of a nearby burial ground. Where did they bury their dead—surely hundreds of people in that long century.

Now the ancient city is to be rebuilt directly over the site where it once stood. Careful removal of the sod and topsoil shows the place of every pole which formed the old wall. The poles were burned where they stood. Why was the city burned? That is puzzle number four.

If the Aztalans feared the uprising of the local peoples who may have resented their practice of cannibalism, would it not be safer to live within a walled city for protection?

And if the local Indians had attacked the Aztalans, would they not have been eager to live comfortably in well-built homes?

And — supposing that the Indians had attacked the Aztalans and massacred them or a number of them—where are their remains buried? Searches have been mounted for burial grounds of any kind which would indicate the final resting places for the Aztalans, but none has been found. Question five: why?

Similar Cites Found

It is known that these cultured Indians of the old walled city had come from the middle Mississippi Valley. A site similar to Aztalan has been found at Monk's Mound near East St. Louis, Ill. Other sites showing relationships through artifacts are at Carbondale, Ill., and Evansville, Ind. Pottery shards and tool manufacture are so similar to those found here that archeologists are agreed that the relationship is indisputable.

Some day Aztalan will be made as nearly complete as is possible by existing evidence. Scholars estimate that it may be reconstructed with only about a 15 per cent degree of error.

Man can know at last what this ancient, well-constructed city may have looked like. But until the answers to the troublesome puzzles are found, Aztalan State Park will remain a city of ancient mysteries, perhaps forever.

Blowing His Own Particular brand of clear and sweet trumpet tones, Raphael Mendez, called the world's greatest concert trumpeter, played in his first practice session Wednesday with the Appleton High School concert band to prepare for the Thursday night concert. Mendez made his fourth concert appearance with an Appleton High School band. French horn players in the lower picture, concentrating intensely in last-minute rehearsal sessions, are, from left, Howard Roelofs, Lynn Pierson and Polly Grobe.

Mendez Great Playing, Rehearsing — Band Members, Audience Know

Young Musicians Respond to World's Greatest Trumpeter

BY MICHELE LEBER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mendez playing is something grand — Mendez rehearsing is almost even better.

Members of Appleton High School concert band rehearsed for weeks for their concert Thursday night with Raphael Mendez, world's greatest concert trumpeter.

But they rehearsed for the first time with their noted guest Wednesday morning. The meeting was something to see.

High school musicians were noisy as they gathered for their fourth hour class ("Simmer down," director Frank P. Comella said as he called them to attention with a shrill whistle) but it was a noisiness compounded of excitement and tense, almost frightened respect.

Scared Trombonist

"I'm so scared I can hardly read the music," a second part trombonist whispered to a seat mate as the students finished tuning up.

"Listen carefully," Comella told the group as he introduced the trumpeter. "Today and tomorrow you will learn more than I can possibly teach you in the next five years."

And giving an interpretation of the music in front of him and a quick snap of his fingers for the attack, Mendez took command — literally — of a group which was suddenly inspired to be more than high school musicians.

The tempo increased, and Mendez was soon in his shirt sleeves, directing briskly, tapping his foot, demonstrating with his horn.

Tune Up, Trombones

"Make believe you're going to start a parade," he told the band as they began the spirited "Mareena." Just a few bars later he stopped them with "Better tune up again, boys," adding that the trombones "have a difference of opinion."

Fingers snapping, he urged a quicker tempo. "Move with me — you have your minds set."

Suddenly he stopped, pointing to an individual musician. "Trumpets — you have a B natural there. He's playing a B flat."

Again and again he stopped during the rehearsal numbers, hearing just one flat note in the group — it's in the third beat of measure five — and going through entire sections of instruments to find it, first the baritone, then the horns, then the saxes.

Play Them Right

"Kids, you might as well play them right," he told them with a smile that was almost apologetic. "I hear them all."

Then, finishing his conducting and giving the band a "Good — very good," he turned them back to Comella and picked up his horn to practice playing to the high school accompaniment.

Listening intently when he wasn't playing, he continued to point out the smallest flaws, polishing the performance — "just

Boy Wants His Dog Returned

A 9-year-old McNaughton, Wis., boy is crying for his dog, which is apparently now in the possession of an Appleton resident.

Pete, a German wire hair, was hit by a car Jan. 9 on U.S. 47 between Lake Tomahawk and Rhinelander. A Rhinelander veterinarian said Pete was brought to him by some Appleton people who said they would take the dog home with them after the vet put three stitches in his head.

Roy Friedrich, the boy's father, says Pete is five years old but looks older and has wiry hair. The dog is sometimes mistaken for a German short hair.

Pete is not a hunting dog, but just a pet to the young Friedrich boy — and he'd like him

Appleton Unions Will Have Financial Report Workshop

The Appleton Federation of Labor Unions will sponsor a workshop for union officers and employees who prepare the financial statements that must be submitted to the federal government.

Al Kobussen, president of the federation, said today the workshop will be at 1:30 p.m., Feb. 23, in the Labor Temple, 527 N. Appleton St. It will be one of the first such workshops in the state, he noted.

It will be conducted by John P. Martin, area director, and Chris L. Pederson, compliance officer, both from the Minneapolis office of the Bureau of Labor Management Reports.

The Landrum-Griffin Act requires labor organizations to file annual financial reports with the U. S. Department of Labor within 90 days after the end of their fiscal year.

Nearly three-fourths of all unions use the calendar year as their fiscal year, which means the reports must be in by March 31.

Martin and Pederson will explain the law, with the help of audio-visual aids, and answer questions.

The two men have reported that 85 per cent of all union financial reports filed last year contained errors.

They complimented the local federation for planning the workshop and said it would greatly reduce extra work for union officials and employees when errors have to be corrected.

Clarity, Sweetness Of Tones Thrilling At Thursday Concert

There's little more to be said about Mendez.

He's great. His trumpet tones are wonderfully pure and sweet. He brings an audience to attention, and they don't want to let him go. And he works wonders with a finely trained high school band.

The few empty seats in the Appleton High School auditorium Thursday night should have been filled, as the world's greatest concert trumpeter made his fourth appearance with an Appleton High School concert band.

Raphael Mendez, "perfection on a trumpet" took command when he walked on the stage, nodded for his attack, and breathed the first thrilling note in the absolute quiet of the auditorium. And from then on, through unbelievable clarity of tone and intricate double and triple tonguing and finally two encores, the audience was his.

Band Responded

But so was the band, and the high school musicians responded to this man with a horn to make their own playing an integral part of each of his numbers.

Mendez recognized and acknowledged with him. Timpanist Jean Mumme who came through rehearsal difficulties with a good performance.

Called back for his second encore, Mendez asked "What do you want — my blood?" then launched into praise of the band.

"I came up here and I found the best band that he (Frank P. Comella, high school band director) ever had. Keep up the good work, Frank. I don't know how you do it, but it's wonderful it's really remarkable."

The band distinguished itself in other numbers from the lulling "Flamenco Ballet" to the rhythmic "Brass Alliance," giving the audience a show of fine group and individual performances.

Needed Push; Got Day in Jail

Walter Swiertz, 30, route 4, Appleton, chose one day in jail instead of a $10 fine when he was found guilty in Municipal Court of leaving his car standing on the highway.

He was arrested by county police after they saw his car parked with two wheels on the roadway for two days.

Judge Oscar J. Schmieg asked Swiertz why he left the car parked near the road.

Swiertz replied that his battery was dead and he parked the car on the shoulder so he could flag down a passing motorist for a push each morning.

He said the auto earlier had been parked in his driveway, but "my wife was getting kind of tired of helping me push it."

Keep Testing In Perspective, Executive Says

Neither Infallible Nor Useless, Speaker Tells Businessmen

Testing should be considered in its proper perspective, as a means of comparing and distinguishing between individuals, Lyle H. Spencer, founder and president of Science Research Associates, Inc., said Tuesday night.

Speaking to 90 people at a YMCA business and industry forum, Spencer said the testing field is under pressure from two points of view, that tests are infallible and will solve all problems or that they have no value at all.

Neither extreme is true, Spencer said. "Tests never are and never should be substituted for judgment or be replacements for regular methods of personnel assessments," but they can help in cases of uncertainty. "Testing, properly used, is one of the most reliable means of getting at intangible human elements."

No Alternative

As far as alternatives to testing are concerned, Spencer said, no matter how a society is built, it must have a system of selecting between its individuals.

"There is going to be testing any way, and it's only a question of which method is least bad."

Tests are made up of either a sample of tasks or a survey of preferences, the research executive explained, citing individual testing programs such as those used in the National Merit Scholarship Program, which he called "almost a census of young talent in the United States."

Recent developments in the field of testing cited by Spencer include short tests which can be given in any combination to fit the particular need, and nationwide testing for specific occupations, such as for stenographers, which will be similar to licensing programs in professions like medicine and law.

Advantages of Tests

These occupational tests would have the advantage of possibly eliminating the need for tests in company personnel offices and also shifting testing costs from the employer to the applicant.

Questioned on aptitude and educational development tests given in schools and industry, Spencer said preparation or "cramming" for such tests has not made more than a 2 per cent difference in test results. These tests are particularly valuable to colleges, he said, since their broad use provides a better comparison of students than high school grades or class ratings.

Aptitude and ability can always change, but "it's remarkable how little they do." It is almost as easy to predict a student's college success at the beginning of ninth grade as at the end of twelfth grade, he said, since basic thought and habit patterns seem to be very well fixed at an early age.

FAA to be Brought Into Airport Study, Carley Says

Pilot Questions Landing Safety At Oshkosh Port

The Federal Aviation Agency definitely will be brought into the present airport study, David L. Carley, director of the state's resource development department, assured at the courthouse this morning.

He made that assurance after W. K. Howell, a North Central Airlines pilot and area safety representative of the Airline Pilots Association, complained of the absence of the FAA at many of the airport hearings.

Howell stated that the Winnebago County airport, even with the instrument landing system and runway extension, would not be as safe as pilots desire because the clear approach zones are not adequate. "The FAA ruling that something is safe does not make it safe. They may be doing the best they can under the situation."

Pilots are opposed to landings and takeoffs over heavily populated areas and this is necessary from any angle at the Oshkosh airport, he maintained. Howell said he has flown into the Oshkosh airports as well as those at Appleton and Green Bay and knows their conditions and the future plans.

It was pointed out that state law sets up the state aeronautics commission to deal with the FAA and communities must go through the state commission. That is why the FAA has not been at any airport hearing for advice and questioning.

Stresses Zoning

Carley in his questioning showed concern as to the zoning of areas around the proposed airport sites suggested for a joint Outagamie-Winnebago County airport or for the Outagamie County airport if Outagamie County "goes it alone."

Speaking for the aviation committee of the Outagamie County Board, Mark Catlin, its chairman, said "the door is still open for any and all negotiations with Winnebago County representatives for the benefit of all concerned, but time is running out on this possibility and we respectfully urge that your department and the gov-

$35,000 Bond For Weinke

Hearing Set for Husband of Woman Shot Wednesday

A charge of first degree murder was brought against Leslie J. Weinke, a 36-year-old Kaukauna service station manager, when he was arraigned Thursday before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg.

Weinke's wife Shirley, 25, was shot in the head twice at about 3 p.m. Wednesday in Kaukauna. She died 90 minutes later.

Allan Cain, Weinke's attorney, requested a preliminary hearing. It was set for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 22. Cain indicated he may ask for a 60-day mental examination for Weinke.

Weinke now is being held in Outagamie County jail on $35,000 bond.

Met At Home

Weinke is charged with murdering his wife when they encountered each other at their home at 308 W. 12th St., Kaukauna. The couple had been separated since early in January, but Mrs. Weinke returned to the home to feed the dog and pick up a jar of water.

Weinke had been released from the hospital at 9 a.m. Wednesday morning after being treated for an infection.

Sheriff Robert Heinritz said Weinke admitted the couple argued and said "I must have shot her." He claims he doesn't remember pulling the trigger.

Bids Approved for Oshkosh Airport

State Commission Action Dims Hopes for Joint County Airport

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—The State Aeronautics Commission today approved five contracts for construction of a new control tower at the Winnebago County airport at Oshkosh, thus apparently dimming the prospects for a new metropolitan airport sponsored by Winnebago and Outagamie Counties.

The state officials acted unanimously and without discussion in the presence of Winnebago County Board leaders who had asked them to act without delay.

The commission also approved the necessity of a new taxiway at the Oshkosh airport to parallel the east-west runway. The action means that state and federal aid funds for the taxiway construction are now pledged. The next step will be to solicit construction bids.

Governor's Request

The approval of tower contracts came in spite of a request by Gov. Gaylord Nelson last month asking to delay the airport expansion pending a study of the lower Fox Valley airport needs, now being made by the state department of resource development.

Dr. L. O. Simenstad, chairman of the state commission, explained that a later opinion from the attorney general advised against unreasonable delays in awarding contracts, and that the commission has had no further word from the governor.

Contract Figures

The five contracts for the tower construction amounted to $150,407. The P. J. Miron Construction Co. of Appleton won the general contract with a low bid of $89,330.

Other low bids approved were for heating and ventilation to Towne, Inc., Little Chute, $19, Williams, Louis Waltman and $37; plumbing to John E. Meyer, Captain Coleman.

Entertainment will be provided by MacDowell Male chorus with Edwin Zordel conducting and Daniel Smith accompanying. Mrs. Gerhard Vogt will play organ dinner music. Community singing will be led by Karel Richmond.

Dinner reservations are being taken by Mrs. O. C. Boldt and Mrs. William Slekman. Arrangements were made by Mrs. Lloyd Towne, Inc., Little Chute, $19, Williams, Louis Waltman and $37; plumbing to John E. Meyer, Captain Coleman.

Oshkosh Field Replacement Set at $4 Million

OSHKOSH — Replacement of Winnebago County's airport facilities would cost $4 million at today's prices, David L. Carley, Director of the State Department of Resource Development, was told Thursday afternoon at the first of three meetings on future airport needs.

Speakers at the courthouse here stressed the use of the field by residents of a five-county area and of the needs for its contemplated projects even though another airport should be constructed in the Fox River Valley.

Carley said he was there to study the state airport situation with an eye to the long-range future and not to delay any contemplated projects now scheduled for Winnebago County airport.

T. C. Widder Jr., representing the Oshkosh Citizens Committee, said the airport at Oshkosh was strategically and centrally located to serve a five-county area containing 313,021 persons. The Austin Straubel field at Green Bay serves 286,697 in its 25-mile radius zone and there is no need for another major airport, he said.

Cites Air Mail

Postmaster Ray Novotny, Oshkosh, cited 11 counties and 80 post offices now served by Winnebago County Airport for airmail, of which 83.9 per cent of the inbound air mail is for the three Winnebago County cities. Winnebago County provides 62.3 per cent of the outgoing airmail. Outagamie county has 9.7 per cent of the outgoing airmail and 8 per cent of the incoming airmail, he stated.

Novotny lumped Neenah and Menasha together with Oshkosh in his airmail and passenger traffic statistics although the proposal for a joint airport was to locate it near Neenah-Menasha. He charged Outagamie County with arranging airline use by its residents to be way down in some months and higher in other months.

The Oshkosh postmaster said in May and June Winnebago County provided 70.3 per cent of the outgoing passengers from the Oshkosh airport and Appleton 19 per cent with the rest of the 4-county area contributing 10.5 per cent of the passenger load.

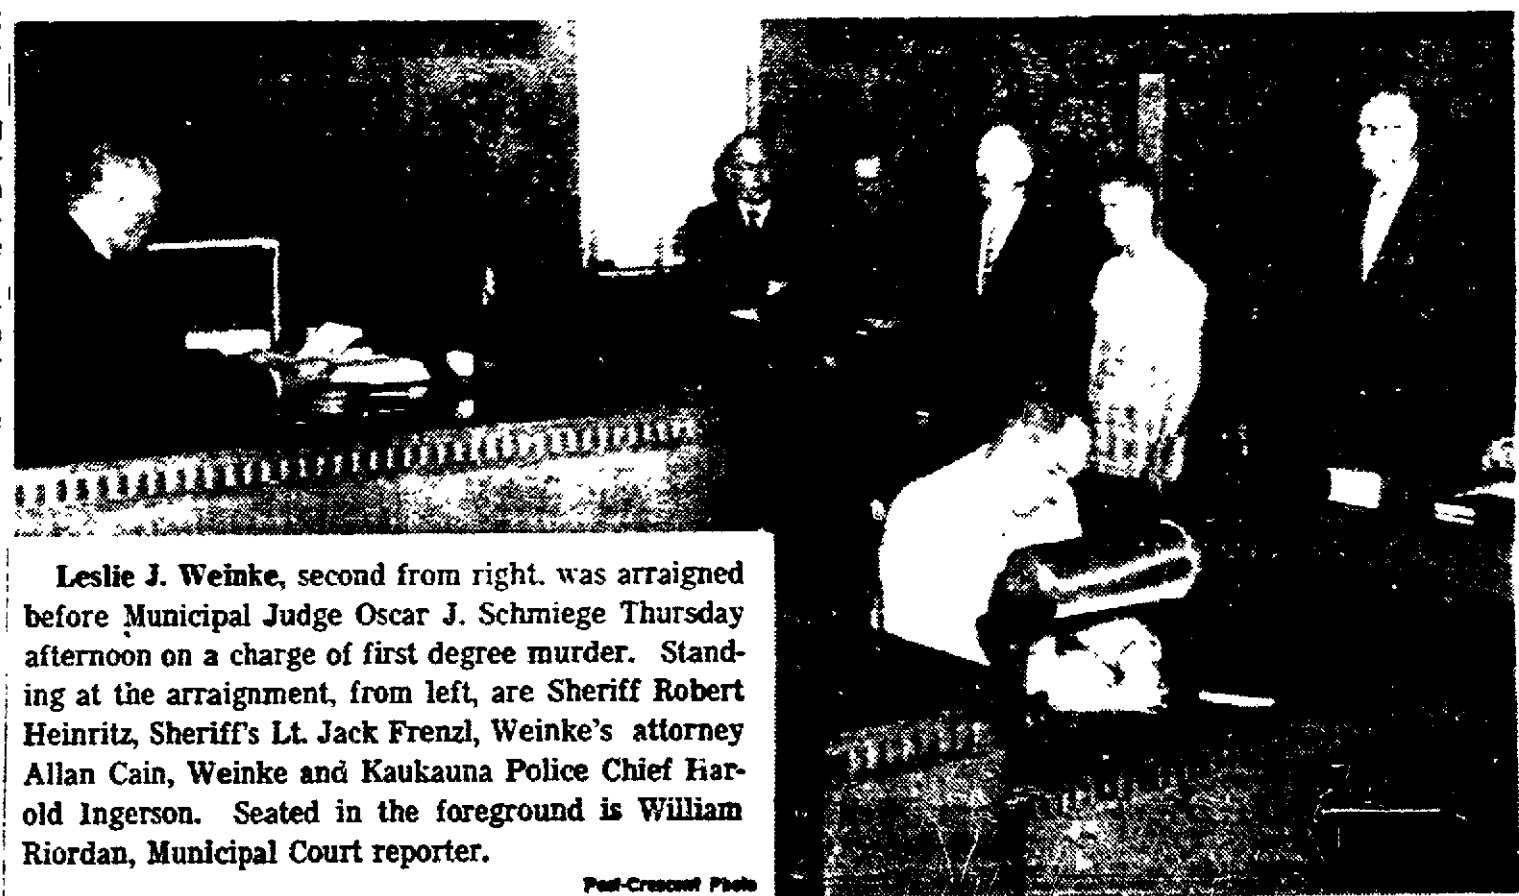

In July the enplaning passengers were 62 per cent from Winnebago County and 2 per cent from Appleton. For the three months of October through December Winnebago County provided 57 per cent and Outagamie County 26 per cent of the passenger load.

Novotny said there was a "small number of very ambitious Apple-

What Keeps Street Crews Busy Now?

With No Snow, Summer Time Projects Can be Continued

BY REINY KLESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

What do street and highway crews do in winter when there is no snow or ice to keep them busy, and we have "June in January" weather?

Workmen in the Fox Cities and the four area counties are doing all sorts of jobs, some of them very unusual wintertime projects.

Streets are being swept, holes and cracks in pavement are being patched and filled, new roads are being built, bridges are being scraped so they can be painted and at Waupaca white sand is being hauled in to improve the beach at South Park.

The usual winter jobs of repairing and painting summer equipment are being done, too. But some of this work has been held back because the equipment has been kept in use through winter months.

Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioner, says the county's road maintenance and construction equipment has been kept going most of the winter.

More Maintenance

"Because of the mild winter and no snow continual freezing and thawing of the ground has multiplied maintenance work. Road shoulders are breaking down much faster than if they were covered with snow and remained frozen," he says.

"But we're taking advantage of the good weather to make repairs now, instead of waiting for spring," Brownson said.

Road base construction for County Trunk XX in Outagamie County has been done, and ditches built along County Trunk A. A county trunk road sufficiency survey is being made, the first since 1954. Normally this can't be done in winter, because it is difficult to take measurements when the ground is covered with snow.

Cleaning out brush along county roads and cutting down trees where roads are to be reconstructed and widened has been going on in all four counties — Winnebago, Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca.

Winnebago County has been doing an unusually large amount of patching, a job that is usually done in spring and fall.

Waupaca County has two crews working crushing gravel and limestone for road construction next summer, an unusual winter job, Highway Commissioner Fred Grunwald says. Another crew is working on improvement of County Trunk C from Clintonville to State 110, a seven-mile stretch.

Calumet County, too, has a crew crushing stone at the county quarry near High Cliff. The stone is being spread on County Trunk C south of Jericho, scheduled for paving within a year. This has been done before during mild winters, Arthur Schnell, high commissioner says.

A winter job for Menasha street crews is building retaining walls. One is being completed on Water street, and another will be started in the Fox-Mathewson Streets area. Sewers are being rodded, too.

Neenah's street department men ran short of outdoor work for awhile and spent several weeks painting walls in city hall. Work is continuing to find breaks in storm sewers and connections between sanitary and storm sewers, part of the flood control program. Ordinarily this work would have to be left until spring.

Basins Cleaned
Workmen in most of the cities and villages have been cleaning out catch basins, a somewhat unusual winter task. During normal winters this cleaning has to be neglected because of snow removal duties, and the basins are hard to get at.

Appleton and Kaukauna have had their street sweepers out almost continually, particularly in business districts.

Appleton workers have been cutting through street and road right-of-ways in the city's industrial park and at the new refuse disposal area in Mackville swamp.

In Kaukauna, the city bought 30 unassembled picnic tables for parks and the men are assembling and painting them. They're also painting and repairing other park and playground equipment.

Watch, $50 Taken From Locker Room

Appleton police today are searching for two young men who are believed to have taken a wallet containing $50 and a watch valued at $45 from a locker at St. Joseph School gym.

Gary Kriek, 1728 N. Ullman St., told police he was refereeing a basketball game at the gym last night and later noticed two young men loitering in the locker room. When he asked them what they were doing, they fled.

Other articles of clothing in the locker room also were rifled, police said.

ernor's office take all possible steps to secure the location of airport facilities that will most effectively and economically meet the industrial needs of the fast-growing Fox River Valley."

Carley said he liked to think of the Fox River Valley area as the Ruhr Valley of Wisconsin, and agreed with Kenneth L. Schellie, head of the firm making a regional planning study, that the Fox Cities will meet United States Census Department requirements for consideration as a metropolitan area by 1970, "though in fact it is one now."

Schellie cited the 37 per cent population increase for the Fox Cities area in the last decade and estimated that by 1985 there will be an additional 85,000 persons living in this area. This will require about 40,000 more jobs.

The regional planner called attention to the highly industrialized status of this area, 49.8 per cent of its residents being thus employed as compared with a statewide urban average of 38 per cent, and of the stable employment shown for this area.

Both Mayor Clarence Mitchell of Appleton and Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon of Kaukauna placed their cities in support of a joint airport or an Outagamie County airport if a joint one failed to materialize.

Industrial Needs
Business and industrial dependence on an adequate airport was expressed this morning by Karl Baldwin representing the Appleton Chamber of Commerce airport committee, Walter Rugland, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans, Talbot Peterson of the Valley Iron Works Corp. and C. F. Martin of Western Consolidating Co.

An adequate airport is necessary for the operations of their business and the continued economic growth of this area, each maintained.

Richard Van Sistine, Wisconsin Telephone Co. manager at Appleton, cited the 56,092 telephones in the Appleton-Neenah-Menasha area as compared with about 25,000 for Oshkosh, Omro and Winnebago.

Carley also asked about the time needed to develop an airport and the estimated costs to which Catlin replied that one could be built in two years after land acquisition. The cost for the joint airport proposed for west of Neenah would be $2,495,000 and the site west of Appleton, if Outagamie County built its own field, at $2,325,000, according to the Leigh Fisher and Associates report.

No Price Change
It was incorrectly stated in Thursday's Post-Crescent that the season ticket at Reid Municipal Golf Course will go from $30 to $35 for women. The women's ticket will remain at $30.

And Mendez was getting the most from these musicians.

"Because their case could not stand on its own merits, they got Neenah-Menasha citizens to act as a front for them," he continued. "The views of these ambitious men are not shared by their area people. We recommend they apply for state aid so the Fisher report could be evaluated by competent state and federal authorities."

M. S. Dailey, executive vice president of Associated Industries of Oshkosh, stressed the planned improvements to enhance the airport's safety, the proximity to the county garage for quick snow removal and the contract with the Oshkosh fire department that is "only two minutes away" in case of a fire.

The east-west runway when completed will be 6,100 feet long and will divert landings and takeoffs from the populated area. It will permit a Convair plane to take off at full load with a 40 knots crosswind. The north-south runway will permit such takeoffs with a 29 knots crosswind.

Replacement Cost

Replacement costs for the airport would run to $3,808,110 — a conservative figure, Dailey said. The invested cost is about $2.5 million. He used a 200 per cent increase in costs since 1940 but said 250 per cent would be a more likely increase.

Also speaking were Hugo Eckardt, Morgan Co. president; Thomas Drummond, Miles Kimball Co. operations manager; John Miller, Berlin - Champman Co. president; Phil Raddatz, Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce airport committee chairman; Al Charapata, representing the Oshkosh Labor Council, and Rudy Haveman, Oshkosh South Side Businessmen's Association President.

Ceremonies at New London Plant Observe Edison's 114th Birthday

The dedication and achievement of Thomas Alva Edison were cited by T. F. Fitzgerald, general manager of Thomas A. Edison Industries, Wood Products Division, New London, a division of McGraw-Edison Co., in plant ceremonies today to observe the inventor's 114th birthday, which is Saturday.

A giant birthday cake topped by a miniature bronze bust of Edison was featured at the ceremonies. The cakes were duplicated in 43 divisions and subsidiaries in this country and Canada.

The manager also recalled Edison's creed, "There's a way to do it better — find it," now the company motto.

Best-Known Inventions
Edison obtained 1,097 patents, Fitzgerald said. "The Wizard of Menlo Park" not only lit up the world with electricity but also developed the phonograph, motion pictures, "talking" films, stock ticker, medical fluoroscope, nickel-iron-alkaline storage battery and even waxed paper and gummed wrapping tape.

Americans outside the company also saluted Edison. Teachers and students commemorated National Science Youth Day, and the entire electrical industry designed the week as National Electrical Week in honor of Edison.

The ceremonies marked a milestone, since they were the first to honor the inventor as an elected member to the Hall of Fame of Great Americans.

The small busts on the birthday cakes represent the large bust that will be installed in the colonnade of the national shrine at University Heights, New York University, where the inventor will take his place alongside more than 85 other great Americans in the Hall of Fame.

Edison became eligible for election only last year. To qualify, an American citizen must be dead 25 years and elections are held in years ending in 0 and 5 only. Edison died in 1931.

Founders of both parent companies, Thomas A. Edison Inc. and McGraw Electric Co. which merged four years ago to form McGraw-Edison, started their careers as newsboys. Edison printed and sold his own newspaper when he was 12 on the Grand Trunk Railroad running from Port Huron to Detroit. Max McGraw, founder of McGraw-Edison, parlayed $500 earned servicing a paper route on horseback in Sioux City, Iowa, into the company.

Neil Stillings Wins AHS Speech Contest

Earns Place in School Hall of Fame With Talk About Cuba

Neil Stillings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stillings, was selected by a panel of judges as winner of the Appleton High School Bolton-Roth extemporaneous speaking contest yesterday.

Stillings, a junior, spoke on Fidel Castro's position in Cuba after two years. Cuba shifted to Russia because of the force of the United States' economic position, Stillings said, explaining that Cuba bartered sugar for Russian crude oil, wheat and other products. Russia's military aid has been most helpful because it has enabled Castro to keep down internal rebellions, the youth said. He called on the U.S. to be firm and to assist other Latin American nations in their stand against Castro.

Other extemporaneous speakers included Ralph Whitehead, who outlined two approaches to the problems of national defense — maintaining military power and using world influence, including money, propaganda and human understanding.

David Earle spoke about the problems of French colonialism in Algeria, including conflicting interests of the ruling French and the Algerian Moslems.

Robert Chase suggested remedies for what he called America's serious problem of unemployment — extending unemployment insurance, shifting the population from distressed areas and encouraging industry to locate in areas having a labor surplus.

Richard Ottman traced the development of the United States' alliances with other countries and said each has fallen short of expectations as going gets rough. He suggested that treaties may need re-evaluation in light of emphasis on atomic weapons.

The boys were coached by E. John Goodrich of the AHS social studies department. Stillings' name will be engraved on the AHS Hall of Fame list. Each speaker received a forensic key.

Fox Cities Area Youths to Debate At Stevens Point

Four Fox Cities area teams will travel to Stevens Point tomorrow for sectional high school debates. Kaukauna and Neenah finished district debates at Kaukauna Jan. 28 with perfect six-win records, and New London and Appleton teams won four and lost two.

Winners among the 19 sectional competitors will advance to state contests.

On the Kaukauna team are Jeffrey DeBruin and Anthony Schlude, Lynn Kehoe and Frances Nelson; Neenah, Betsy Billings, Rita Buck, William Schockley and James Hedlund; and Appleton, Michael Liethen, Neil Stillings, which he would have to serve Charles Dostal and James Dumke, anyway.

Sheltered Workshop Elects Two to Board

Fischer, Roberts Named Directors; Sales Increase to $63,510 in Last Year

Al C. Fischer and T. C. Roberts, both of Appleton, were elected to the board of directors of Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop yesterday afternoon at the workshop's fourth annual meeting. Five directors and all officers were reelected.

The workshop, which employed 38 handicapped people at various times during the last year, reported a sales increase from $52,383 in 1959 to $63,510 in 1960. Workers' earnings were $43,475. The workshop did packing, assembling, sorting and a number of other operations for 14 companies during the year. It is self-sustaining, and its modest earnings are expected to make additional space possible without public contributions.

Committee Okays Radar For Sheriff

Will Ask $1,200 At Next Session of Winnebago Board

OSHKOSH — The sheriff and coroner's committee voted Thursday to ask the Winnebago County Board for $1,200 to purchase radar equipment for the county police. The action follows petitions presented to it by the Town of Neenah Board, a group of citizens in the Twin City area and the Allen-ville Grange.

Several fatal accidents during the last few weeks of 1960 in the Town of Neenah prompted action by the town's board and a group of citizens to request radar as a means of cutting down speed.

Medical Expenses
Acting on the suggestion of the county auditor, the sheriff and coroner's committee is going to look into the possibility of collecting for medical expenses of prisoners.

Many of the prisoners have some form of hospitalization and medical insurance which might pay for some of the medical costs incurred by them while in jail, it was pointed out.

Painting of the radio tower for the county police station at a cost of $225 was approved.

Youths Plead Guilty of Theft, Entering Trailer

Two Appleton youths in Municipal Court have changed their pleas to guilty of 14 counts of breaking and entering, theft and traffic violations.

Richard Underwood, 19, 1918 N. Charlotte St., and Terry Besaw, 19, 930 W. Brewster St., are being held for a two-week pre-sentence investigation.

The pair pleaded innocent Jan. 31.

The charges include breaking into a house trailer and stealing $62 and several gasoline thefts in Outagamie County.

Underwood was sentenced to 14 days in jail or $35 in fines for driving an unregistered vehicle and having improper license plates.

He chose the jail term.

Charles Dostal and James Dumke, anyway.

OSC Students to Have Religious Emphasis Week

Special Speakers To Visit Campus for 3-Day Observance

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh State College students will give additional concentration to their spiritual lives next week when they observe their annual Religious Emphasis Week.

Special activities are sponsored during the week by various religious clubs on the campus, through the inter-faith council, a group composed of representatives from each religious club on campus. The activities are held in conjunction with National Brotherhood Week.

The special religious activities have been scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Keynote Speaker
The week will begin with an open assembly in the union lounge at 9:30 a.m. Monday when students will hear keynote speaker Dr. John W. Alexander, associate professor of geography at the University of Wisconsin.

Monday afternoon a special movie, "Boundary Lines," will be shown.

On Monday or Tuesday night, individual religious clubs will hold sectional meetings to hear speakers. Speakers who will appear on campus include Mr. Thomas Coddington, Milwaukee; Father James Corrigan, S. J., Oshkosh; the Rev. George Forell, Chicago; the Rev. Paul Henniges, Racine, Religious Emphasis Week, Tuesday and the Rev. Jess Norenberg, day and Wednesday morning will Wisconsin Congregational Conference, begin with early mass or special services in the churches attended by the student body.

Salary Hike Approved for AVS Teachers

2½ Per Cent Increase Sets Base Pay at $4,638 for Fall

A 2½ per cent salary increase for Appletan Vocational and Adult School teachers was approved by the vocational education board yesterday.

A person with a bachelor's degree will start in fall at $4,638, and those with 16 years experience will get $7,098. The present range is $4,525 to $6,925. To these salaries are added $100 for being a man, $300 for being head of family and $300 for having a master's degree, so top salary will be $7,798.

Teachers will get five annual raises of $143.50, six of $153.75 and five of $164.

Studies Schedules

The raises will add about $3,000 to the school's annual costs.

The board had studied wage and salary schedules from 14 industries, five municipalities and four school systems in the Fox Cities, and found that most had given 3 to 4 per cent increases during the last year.

A maximum gross cost of $6,000 for the summer driver training program was set. About 60 per cent of this will be paid by student fees. The program will accommodate about 250 people.

School Qualifies

The State Board of Vocational and Adult Education notified the AVS board that the Appletan School of Business continues to qualify as a technical institute. A detailed report on the state's re-evaluation of the school will come within two weeks, it was reported.

The board allowed Miss Doris Keup, home economics coordinator, to attend a curriculum development committee meeting in Madison March 1 to 3.

The 1961-62 school calendar, which coincides with Appletan Public school calendar, was approved. Teacher orientation is Aug. 30 to Sept. 5, classes begin Sept. 6, Christmas vacation is Dec. 16 to Jan. 1, inclusive, and school closes June 8.

Wholesale School Supply Business Begins Operation

Valley School Suppliers, Inc., 1000 Bluemound Drive, Town of Grand Chute, opens its wholesale school equipment and materials business today.

Owner and president of the firm is E. J. Schrage, who sold Universal Paper Co. in July and retained its school supply division.

Richard Mittelstadt is vice president.

Valley School Suppliers handle school furnishings, typewriters, lockers and other equipment as well as paper.

The concrete and steel building was constructed in late 1960 at a cost of more than $100,000. The 100 by 200 foot structure has a two-story section in front, and 16,000 square feet of warehouse space in the rear. Show, sales and wrapping rooms are included.

Papermakers to See Fundamentals Of Graphic Arts

MENASHA — Fundamentals of graphic arts will be taught to non-permaning employees of Bergstrom Paper Co. who sign up for a special course offered by Menasha Vocational and Adult School.

Classes will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning Feb. 14, and continuing until March 28.

Operator of Neenah Beauty Shop Dies

Mrs. Martha Kennedy, 303 N. Commercial St., Neenah, owner and operator of the Comfort Beauty Shop, Neenah, died this morning. She was born in Marshfield.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at First Presbyterian Chapel with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. Friends may call at the Westgro Funeral Home, Neenah, after 2 p.m. Sunday.

Woman Hurts Cheek In Two-Car Crash

Mrs. Betty Lobert, 321 E. John St., received cheek injuries when the car she was riding in was involved in a two-car crash at 9:05 p.m. Thursday at N. Morrison and E. Johnson Streets.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Harold Babcock, 35, 1417 N. Rankin St., when it collided with a car driven by Suzanne Holmes, 20, 628 Warsaw St., Menasha.

Four Persons Were injured this morning in this two-truck crash on a town road about one-half mile northwest of Allenville. Erwin Schmude, 42, Butte des Morts, driver of the tipped truck, and John Peterson, 41, route 1, Winneconne, a passenger, are in critical condition at Mercy Hospital, Oshkosh. Ralph Hansen, 40, route 5, Oshkosh, driver of the pickup truck, and his daughter, Barbara, 3, also were seriously hurt. Winnebago County Police found traces of paint from the pick up truck on a tree limb (arrow) about eight feet above the ground. The imprint of the small truck's right front tire can be seen on the cattle truck's cab.

4 Teenagers Injured in Car Accident

CLINTONVILLE — Four Clintonville teenagers were hospitalized with injuries after the car in which they were riding left Knaack Road, 2½ miles west of here, about 1:30 a.m. today.

In Community Hospital are Verjean Schmallenberg, 17, 66 E. 12th St., in "fair" condition with a fractured pelvis, multiple facial and arm lacerations and thigh bruises; Carol Klemp, 17, 47 E. 14th St., minor bruises; Roger Stewart, 18, 227 S. Main St., facial and head bruises and cuts inside his mouth, and Thomas J. Rhode, 17, route 2, Clintonville, the driver, with head and chest injuries.

Clarence Draeger of the county traffic patrol said Rhode apparently lost control approaching a curve. The car skidded into a ditch and against a utility pole and some boulders.

The teenagers were traveling east toward Clintonville at the time of the accident, Draeger said.

Four Seriously Hurt In Two-Truck Crash

Cattle Carrier, Pickup Collide on Town Road Northwest of Allenville

ALLENVILLE — Four persons were injured, at least two of them critically, in a two-truck accident about 9:10 a.m. today on a town road one-half mile northwest of Allenville.

In critical condition at Mercy Hospital, Oshkosh, are Erwin Schmude, 42, Butte des Morts, driver of a cattle truck, and John Peterson, 41, route 1, Winneconne, a passenger.

Also injured were Ralph Hansen, 40, route 5, Oshkosh, driver of a pickup truck, and his daughter, Barbara, 3.

Head Injuries
Schmude suffered severe head and nose injuries and severe facial cuts. Peterson has a possible fractured jaw and leg and a severe eye injury.

Hansen received neck and shoulder injuries and severe scalp lacerations. His daughter, Barbara had a cut lip and was suffering from shock.

Winnebago County Police were unable to determine exactly how the accident happened, but a witness, Gerald Christianson, who lives on a farm about 100 yards north of the accident scene, said Hansen was trying to pass the cattle truck.

Both trucks were headed south on the town road but came to rest facing the opposite direction with the cattle truck tipped over.

Hit Tree
The pickup truck hit a tree on the opposite side of the road. County Police found paint from the truck on a limb of the tree about eight feet above ground.

Christianson said he saw Hansen attempt to pass the cattle truck but did not see the actual crash.

An imprint of the right front wheel of the smaller truck was found on the front of the cab of the cattle truck and rubber markings were found on the rim of the right rear wheel of the pickup.

Police surmised the two trucks may have locked wheels. The frame of the cattle truck was broken just behind the cab.

Fred Reitz, route 5, Oshkosh, who lives on a farm about a mile from the scene, said both trucks had stopped at his farm shortly before the accident.

He said Schmude had picked up a calf from him. There also were several pigs in the truck. None of the livestock was apparently injured.

Verne Imhof to Address K of C

KAUKAUNA — Verne Imhof, professor of psychology and director of the University of Wisconsin Fox Cities Extension Center, will speak on crime problems at a meeting of the Knights of Columbus at 8:15 p.m. Monday at St. Mary Church hall.

A vote is planned which will permit the building committee to sell organization owned lots on Sarah Street, Kaukauna. A discussion is also planned on the engaging of an architect or engineer to help draw plans and specifications for a clubhouse.

The organization recently took an option on lots in the D.S.K. plat, north of Highway 41, as a possible site for future building. Lots presently owned are located in a residential area where parking facilities would be limited.

Neenah Students, Advisors to Tour Chicago Slums

NEENAH — Twenty-eight high school young people and six adult advisors of First Presbyterian Church will spend the weekend in Chicago touring the slums of the city's inner-city program in the Chicago slums.

The group will leave today, returning to Neenah Sunday evening.

Their guide will be the director of the presbytery's work, Dr. William T. Jones. The students will be studying "the church at work" in neighborhood houses, integrated churches, recreation areas and slum re-development centers.

Adult advisors accompanying the students include Mrs. W. U. Day, Mrs. Lester Leffel, Mrs. Kenneth Watkins, Milton Hurston and the Rev. and Mrs. James Akin.

Neenah Story Hour

NEENAH — Mrs. Clarence Bredendick will be the story teller at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Neenah library. Her stories will be "Give Chinese Brothers," by Phillis Claire Bishop and "Lucy McGinley."

Cause of Civil War Disputed by Speaker

Claims Forfeited Presidential Power, Not Breakdown of Democracy, Led to Fight

MENASHA — Jay Joslyn, associate member of the State Civil War Centennial Commission, addressing the Menasha Historical Society last night, claimed the authority of government forfeited by Presidents Pierce and Buchanan was responsible for the start of the Civil War, rather than the breakdown of democratic process as Carl Sandburg has claimed.

Wisconsin's part in the Civil War, Joslyn said, was so great that a study of the state's war activities would encompass the entire history of the war itself.

He related Gen. William T. Sherman's account of the Second Wisconsin Regiment's action at the Battle of Bull Run. Sherman, then a colonel commanding the third brigade in Tyler's First Division, chose the 13th, 79th and 69th (Irish) New York regiments and the Second Wisconsin as his brigade.

The Second was the first to hit the rebels as they gathered strength on Matthews Hill after being driven from Sudley Springs Ford.

First Medal
Mrs. Fred Hollenbeck, Cleveland Street, is the owner of one of the first Congressional Medals of Honor issued. It went to her grandfather, Pvt. William Knight, of the 21st Ohio Regiment, for his part in the Andrews Raid, April 12, 1862. Joslyn recounted the story of the raid and the action that won Lt. James Pond of Appletan a Congressional Medal of Honor with the Third Wisconsin Cavalry.

Two companies of the Third Wisconsin Cavalry were recruited in this area. Co. I in Appletan by Theodore Conkey and Co. B in Oshkosh by William Barstow.

Networks to Cover Trial Of Eichmann

May Have to Share Taped Pictures in Pool Arrangement

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The next big predictable story on which television will focus its attention will be the trial of Adolf Eichmann. The man who was in charge of Nazi Germany's liquidation of Jews is scheduled to be tried in Israel in mid-March.

So far, the job of covering the trial looms as an expensive headache. At the moment, it looks as if the three American networks have no choice but to accept pool coverage—each network to receive the same taped pictures of the trial each day—and each will pay about $50,000 to get them.

But this is a lot less than the original estimates made by an independent company with an Israeli government contract to provide exclusive TV coverage for all who want it. The original asking price was $160,000 from each network.

But cost isn't the only problem. The TV networks, like any other communications medium, dislike the idea of having news fed to them, particularly by an agency allied with a government.

"We disapprove of such a contract both in principle and as a precedent," said Rodney Clurman, NBC's special projects coordinator who has been working steadily on the Eichmann trial plans since before Thanksgiving. "But obviously, they can't crowd into one courtroom everybody's equipment and crews."

The trial is expected to last 17 weeks, and the way things stand now, the three American networks will receive an hour's worth of TV tape on the trial daily, material which will be selected by an editor on the scene chosen by NBC, CBS and ABC.

But most awkward of all is a chance the Eichmann trial may not turn out to be very interesting viewing. In the first place, most of the testimony will be in a foreign language—Hebrew and German, and with instantaneous translations into English and French. In the second place, there may be long periods of the trial devoted to legalistic debate over Israel's right to try Eichmann, a German who was captured in South America.

Vivien Leigh to Play Scarlett O'Hara Again

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Scarlett O'Hara is returning to Georgia. British movie actress Vivien Leigh, who played the heroine's role in "Gone With The Wind," Thursday accepted an invitation to take part in a second "premiere" of the film March 10. It will be a part of Georgia's observance of the Civil War Centennial.

New Western Series Has Unique Angle 'Gunslinger' Cord Undercover Agent For U. S. Army

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Something different in the way of western lawmen appeared Thursday night when CBS' new hour-long "Gunslinger" made its debut. The fast-drawing hero is an undercover agent for the Army, a real change from the usual avenging sheriffs, marshals and hired guns.

Aside from that, "Gunslinger" follows strictly the tried and true formula.

The Jack Paar Show, which has been quietly perking along recently, gave the late viewers a few puzzled moments of silence Wednesday night.

First, a tattered man whose face was smeared with makeup suddenly jumped upon the stage and started talking. He was immediately hustled out by one of the NBC security forces.

A few minutes later, Alex King, Paar's guest, inadvertently made what the network called "an inappropriate remark," and when both King and Paar tried to recover from the quip it just made it sound worse.

NBC brass studied the tape of the show, found the tattered man was trying to get some free plugs for an off-Broadway play. The episode was left in the show, but sound was erased from the tape. And it was very obviously erased so that others would be discouraged from trying the same thing. In addition, they "blipped" from the sound track the unfortunate King-Paar dialogue, about 20 seconds worth in all. (Incidentally, King's remarks were not off-color but might have sounded derogatory.)

Drama From India Added To Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—A spirited drama from India now adds further variety to New York's impromptu world theatrical festival. "The King of the Dark Chamber," written by Nobel Prize poet Rabindranath Tagore, opened Thursday night at the Jan Hus Playhouse as part of centennial celebration of the artist's birth.

Notable in her American debut was Surya Kumari, a leading stage-screen actress of that Asian land. Under the direction of Krishna Shah, a compatriot from Bombay, Miss Kumari displayed a luminous artistry to match appealing beauty.

Words often misused: Do not say, "He should be called down for his impudence." "Call down" is a colloquialism. It is better to say, "He should be REPROVED for his impudence."

Often mispronounced: Anathe-ma. Pronounce ah-nath-ee-mah.

Synonyms: Oppress, afflict, distress, harass, molest, persecute, torment, worry.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: antilogy, a contradiction in terms or ideas. "Pro-nounce ann-till-oh-y, accent second syllable." "His speech was full of antilogies."

Neenah Battle in Annexation

Towns Group to Map Strategy Against New Law

NEENAH — Town Board representatives will meet Wednesday night at Lakeview School to plan a fight against a proposed law aimed at streamlining annexations of rural land.

The bill, 24-S, introduced Jan. 18 in the legislature for the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, would allow cities to initiate annexation of adjoining lands.

Town government representatives met Thursday at Lakeview school under the auspices of the Neenah Towns Association, which has begun its attack on the posed law.

Two means of fighting the new law were seen at Thursday's meeting. Town representatives will be at legislative committee hearings, and rural area residents will write letters of protest to legislators.

Neenah, Town of Neenah, chairman, conducted the meeting, attended also by members of the town boards of Menasha, Grand Chute, Oshkosh, Ulwa, Kaukauna, Omro and Black River.

A letter from a Madison attorney retained by the towns group stated: "This bill would permit annexation without any petition of any property owner or election and would give the electors no right of referendum."

Kenneth Heinz, Neenah Town Board member, said: "We're asking for the basic rights of the people of Wisconsin, and we're standing out for a referendum."

Warm Spell Appears to be Ending

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Wisconsin's brief vacation from winter weather appeared to be ending today.

A light snow fell this morning along the Wisconsin-Michigan border and a freezing drizzle was reported earlier in the Superior region. Snow flurries fell during the night in the extreme northern part of the state.

Temperatures, however, remained well above normal. Eau Claire was the coldest spot with a low of 13 degrees. Lone Rock, Madison had 17. Janesville, Crossville, Wausau and Superior 20. Pewaukee 21, Lake Geneva 22, Green Bay and Milwaukee 23 and Kenosha and Racine 24.

SHKOSH — Ervin Kempf, 60, of Cambridge, was arraigned Thursday before Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane on a charge of showing an obscene photograph of two Oshkosh teenage girls in his home.

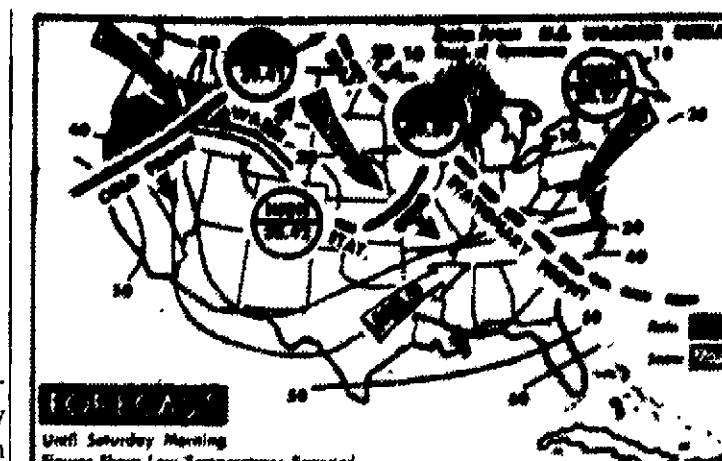

Proceedings were postponed until 2:30 p.m. today to permit Kempf to consult an attorney. He was jailed in default of $500 bond.

Shares Dip in Heavy Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a definite step lower in heavy trading early this afternoon.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .80 at 233.70 with industrials down 1.40, rails down .20 and utilities down .30.
Most key stocks took losses running from fractions to a point or so, some declining about 2.
Volume was not up to Thursday's rate which was the biggest since September 1955.
Brokers said a considerable amount of profit taking was going on but that speculative interest was still so high that offerings were taken without much difficulty. An exception was the electrical equipment stocks, still besieged by sellers due to threatened suits resulting from the anti-trust convictions.
Steels, motors, rails, oils, drugs, airlines, chemicals, coppers, electronics, and utilities were among the losers. Tobacco and rubbers were mixed.
The decline was accompanied by gloomy news of a sharp decline in auto assemblies and word that unemployment in mid-January was off 3.32 at 641.80.

Plankinton to Close Plant at Milwaukee in '62

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Plankinton Packing Co., in operation in Milwaukee for 114 years, plans to close its plant here early next year. The firm employs about 800 workers.
Dallas Miller, Plankinton manager, said Thursday that old facilities, unsatisfactory earnings and a decline in salable livestock were the reasons for the closing.
Plankinton was founded by John Plankinton in 1847 and sold to Swift & Co., Chicago, in 1937 after Swift had operated it on a lease for 25 years.
Miller said that the shutdown in 1962 would be gradual with full consideration given to all employees. Eligible employees will be considered for early retirement or separation allowances and the company will make every effort to help workers find other jobs, he said.
Products under the Plankinton label will be handled by other Swift plants, Miller said.
The worst since the early 1940s.
Westinghouse Electric fell 2% to 40% on a block of 57,000 shares, then trimmed the loss slightly in later dealings.
General Electric was still not trading in early afternoon, due to the accumulation of sell orders.
The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.32 at 641.80.

If You Do . . .

Here Is An Opportunity For You!

We will soon have a vacancy in our Want-Ad Department, because one of our Want-Advisors is leaving, after having been with us for some time.

In this position you will be in regular contact with the public, both personally and by telephone, advising and helping with Want-Ads of all different kinds . . . helping Mrs. Smith rent a vacant room . . . helping Mrs. Jones sell some non-urgent needed furniture or clothing . . . helping Mr. Brown sell his home . . . helping with all the daily needs and wants of hundreds of fine people.

It is necessary that you be able to type, and we prefer that you be between 20 and 30 years of age. Neat appearance and the ability to meet and talk with people easily are highly desirable qualities for this type of work. Training will be given.

This position offers paid vacation, profit sharing plan, group medical and life insurance and a 5 1/2 day work week. If you feel you have the necessary qualifications, for interview appointment call . . .

The Largest Pin Oak Tree in the world stands on a lot line between a grocery store and museum on the Menominee Indian Reservation at Keshena. The tree measures 10 feet, nine inches in circumference with a height of 87 feet and a crown spread of 81.5 feet. Characterized by its numerous small "pin knots," the tree is not suitable for finish lumber.

55 Dairy Cows, 130 Head Beef Stock Keep JC Farm Winner Busy

SHIOCTON — Feeding out 130 head of beef cattle, milking 55 dairy cows daily, feeding out 130 hogs yearly and collecting 5,378 dozen eggs in a year keeps Clifford Conradt, Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce Outstanding Young Farmer, busy.

Conradt's farm, east of Shiocton in Town of Bovina, is 300 acres. Forty additional acres are rented.

The award winner feels he has been successful in his farming enterprise, which has increased 1,264 per cent in net worth in nine years, because of a good example set by his father, Jack Lammer. Shiocton, a neighbor, nominated Conradt for the honor.

Switch Breeds

Conradt's farming is diversified, compared to many farmers today who specialize in one field. The beef cattle date back to 1930 when Conradt's father fed out white face. This was discontinued because the two men found themselves paying more for the cattle than they were getting on the market.

A switch to an Angus-Holstein cross has brought a lower market price, but a still lower initial purchase price for the cattle. Conradt says. He can buy the young stock for 5 to 7 cents less than what he sells them for on the market.

The eggs are laid by 275 chickens. The farmer also has 43 head of replacement stock on hand for his milking cattle. He now has 10 per cent of the dairy herd registered and is working into all purebred stock.

His DHIA herd average last

Beet Growers Get New Contract Plan

Bankers to Join Farm Judge Tours

60 Farmers Being Questioned For Progressive Family Award

Members of the Outagamie County Bankers Association will accompany farm judges this year as men from each of the county's 20 townships judge farm families for the progressive farm award.

Judges for the contest, sponsored by the bankers association, met this week and received instructions from county extension and SCS leaders. Progressive farm families will be announced March 14 at Seymour Lutheran Church.

The bankers, Vern Geiger, SCS planner said, will be able to gain a better understanding of rural people, their enterprises and problems by accompanying the judges. Sixty farm families will be visited between now and Feb. 24.

The award, Geiger said, is not for the best farmer in the county, but the farm family making the most progress in land manage-

6,000 Acres Asked in '61 Agreement

Sugar beet growers within a 38-mile radius of Green Bay, if they contract 6,000 acres, will next year for the first time share in financial returns realized through the sale of sugar beet by-products.

Representatives of the Menominee Sugar Co., Green Bay, and the Wisconsin Sugar Beet Growers Association decided on the additional profit sharing plan during 1961 contract negotiations at Chilton Tuesday.

The new contract between the

60 Farmers To be Guests Of Oshkosh

City to Have First Rural-Industry Day Tours Monday

OSHKOSH—Sixty farmers from Winnebago County will be guests of Associated Industries of Oshkosh, Inc., at its first Rural-Industry Day Monday.

The group, chosen by County Agent Vernon W. Peroutky as representative farmers, will meet at the courthouse at 9 a.m. and then will leave by chartered bus for tours of the Morgan Co. and the Rockwell-Standard Co.

Farmers will be joined at noon at Hotel Alhearn by Oshkosh industrialists for a luncheon. Ralph Ellis, chief economist of Allen-Bradley Co. of Milwaukee, will speak on "The Impact of Foreign Competition on the American Economy."

Also speaking will be Hugo Eckhardt, Morgan Co. president and president of Associated Industries, and County Agent Vernon W. Peroutky. M. S. Dailey, Associated Industries executive vice president, will be toastmaster.

Calumet Sale Averages $107 For Bred Pigs

Top Animal Brings
$145 to Hilbert Man
For Hampshire Gilt

CHILTON — Active bidding by an excellent turnout of buyers boosted the average price paid for a bred gilt at the annual Calumet County Bred Gilt and Boar Sale to $107.

This represents a $20.50 hike over the average price per animal at last year's sale which was $86.50. The average this year fell considerably short of the sale record. In 1954, with $190 paid for the top animal, the sale averaged $167.

Eugene Mertz, Hilbert, consigned the top animal to this year's sale in the Fairgrounds Arena. His Hampshire gilt brought $145 and was purchased by Lawrence Conrad Jr., Shawano. Last year $110.50 for a gilt was the top price.

The record price paid for a gilt at the sale, which is sponsored by the Calumet County Swine Breeders Association, was $200 paid in 1951.

Top boar of the sale was a Poland China consigned by Glenn Hacker, Brillion, and bought for $105 by Joseph Michalek, route 3, Kewaunee. The boars averaged $72.

James Heubner, route 1, Brillion, was the top buyer. He bought three gilts for a total of $345 including a Yorkshire gilt for $127.50 and Chester White gilts for $125 and $92.50.

Sale Officials

Sale officials were Norman Pautz, vocational agriculture instructor at Chilton High School, sale manager; Robert Hemauer who holds a position similar to Pautz's but at New Holstein High School, worked the ring, Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agent, read pedigrees and Thiel & Thiel were auctioneers.

The state Chester White sale which followed the county event averaged $107 for bred gilts.

26 Boars, Gilts Ready For Annual Auction

Animals Picked as Foundation Stock For Farmer Entering Pig Industry

Twenty-six purebred boars and bred gilts will be auctioned at the 10th annual Outagamie County Swine Breeders' sale at Outagamie County Farm, two miles west of Appleton on U. S. 10 starting at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Popular breeds are represented of which 10 are boars, 14 bred gilts and two open gilts. Breeds represented are Yorkshire, Duroc, Spotted Poland China, Landrace and Chester White. Consignments include 10 special selections from the Winnebago County Swine Breeders.

Animals have been carefully selected for meat-type and other desirable breed characteristics. These purebred hogs should provide a good foundation animal for any swine herd. The bred gilts are all due to farrow within a month of the sale.

All animals are cholera im-

muned. They have been selected on the basis of pedigree, good meat-type and size, size of litter and rate of growth. The breeder guarantees his animals to be sound. A certificate of registration and transfer will be furnished to the buyer.

Sale catalogues are available from the Agricultural Extension Office, Courthouse, Appleton and Oshkosh.

Consignors include Schuster Bros., Berlin, Duroc; Alois Leisgang, Seymour, Spotted Poland China; Robert Tesch, New London, Landrace; Sambs Bros., Hortonville, Landrace; Gene A. Gorges, Black Creek, Duroc; G. M. Smith & Sons, Omro, Yorkshire; Larry J. Basel, Omro, Yorkshire; Guy Grundy & Sons, Oshkosh, Landrace; Earl Maxwell, Neenah, Chester White; Emil Kapingst, Appleton, Yorkshire; Gerhardt Ruhsam, New London, Landrace, and Oliver V. Lerum, Seymour, Duroc.

Rosalita Pufahl, Route 2, Weyauwega, holds a bottle of milk for a lamb neglected by its mother. The Pufahl family allows the lamb to enter the house occasionally for feeding.

Family Saves Tiny Lamb by Bottle Feeding

WEYAUWEGA — A first born lamb, in a litter of two, was neglected by the ewe at the Francis Pufahl farm, route 2, Weyauwega. The lamb was almost dead when the Pufahls brought it into the house, pried open its mouth and fed it a teaspoon of milk. They continued to feed it three teaspoons of milk at 10-minute intervals.

After the lamb had been fed cow's milk its mother refused to feed it so members of the farm family have continued to feed the baby. They are now using a baby's bottle. The lamb is housed in the barn, but it is periodically allowed in the house to visit Rosalita Pufahl, 4, who usually feeds it.

Seek More Liberal Irrigation Laws

Potato Growers in Dispute With Fishermen, Others Over Water

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state legislature is again dealing with the sticky problem of irrigation laws. Organized potato growers, representing a sizeable economic interest and especially in central and north central Wisconsin, have asked the law-makers to liberalize the 1959 irrigation controls law that was adopted after a stiff fight with trout fishermen and others who regard diversion of water from public streams with reserve year a record harvest was achieved. There are now more than 700 far without spoken protest from the conservationists, is to give the growers greater security under the permits they hold from state regulatory agencies.

Record Harvest

Although stream water is used for the irrigation of other crops, the big irrigation activity is by commercial potato producers. Wisconsin potato harvests have been expanding, largely because of the more extensive irrigation. Last year a record harvest was achieved. There are now more than 700 water diversion permits outstanding. Objective of the new drive, thus water diversion permits outstanding.

ing, many of them involving the right to remove water in specified volume and during stated periods from the Wolf River and its tributaries in the north central part of the state.

Robert Diercks, leading Langlade county grower and head of an agricultural water users association, was the chief spokesman of the industry at a legislative hearing here.

He declared flatly that Wisconsin growers cannot produce for the quality potato market of the country without the right to supplement natural rainfall with water taken from public streams.

Reviewed annually

Under present law the irrigation farmers have no permanent right. Their permits can be reviewed annually by the public service commission and the conservation commission.

The latter can veto any permit involving a trout stream.

Present law also permits the use of water on lands contiguous to those held by riparian owners on a temporary basis.

The growers who now have permits want them to be issued on a permanent basis, and also want assurance that the watering of contiguous lands can be continued indefinitely.

General law restricts permits to riparian land-owners and also requires a showing that the diversion of water won't damage other riparians downstream. The conservation commission is involved because the diversion of water tends to damage trout waters.

Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto, whose district includes some of the most ardent trout enthusiasts in the state as well as some of the most successful potato producers, told the assembly committee that the irrigators are restrained about irrigation.

Village Board Sets Caucus

Iola to Nominate Candidates, Discuss Possible Referendum

IOLA — The village caucus has been scheduled for March 9 at the Iola High School. The date was set by the village board.

The terms of all village officials except for three trustees expire. Candidates will be nominated at the caucus for the office of president now held by Sherman Cleaves; clerk, now held by Charles Hartvig; treasurer now held by Kenneth Carlson; constable now held by Rinhard Krause; justice of the peace; now vacant; and trustees now held by Carl Waller, Willie Erickson and Howard Bestul. Trustees elected last year for two years are Arnold Helgeson, Ingval Olson and Chester Krause.

Other business at the board meeting included a decision to purchase a uniform cap and coat for Village Marshal Neil Krause, and discussions pertaining to the settlement of the I.O.O.F. property and a probable liquor referendum at the spring election.

To Discuss Show

in their requests because they don't want to endanger the truce that was arranged with the conservationists two years ago when the capital rang with controversy about irrigation.

ANSWER: THE DAILY NEWSPAPER. Nearly everyone reads a newspaper every day — so it follows that practically any product sold will be sold to a newspaper reader. Hence the newspaper is basic and the effective use of its advertising columns constitutes the most powerful and profitable advertising force in existence. And that's why so many advertisers use it day after day. Newspapers are the answer to your advertising needs.

People Like Peas Sweet

Research Shows Sugar Helps Flavor Of Canned Crop

Canned peas are likely to be sweeter these days, because University of Wisconsin research has shown that's the way people like them best.

Many Wisconsin canners have started putting more sugar in the canning brine — around 7.5 to 8.7 per cent. In the past, canners have used between 1.6 and 5.3 per cent sugar in peas.

In a test each family got several cans of peas, two at a time, which the various family members compared for taste and appearance. The only difference between the two cans was in the amount of sugar used.

There was a definite preference for the highest rates of sugar used in the pea tests. This was between 7.3 and 8.7 per cent sugar in the brine — or 120 pounds per each 150 gallons.

As for attractiveness, both panels preferred the peas canned with a little less than the highest amount of sugar, but still considerably higher than what had normally been used. Colorimeter values also showed that the heaviest rate of sugar addition caused a slight decrease in brightness of the peas.

A similar consumer preference test is being conducted on added levels of sugar in cream style corn.

Feeder Pig Raisers Must Hike Quality of Animal to Compete

Co-op Marketing Chief Tells Breeders Future of Business

Winnebago and Outagamie County feeder pig raisers were given an insight into what their industry will look like in 10 years at a district meeting of Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Co-op. Three major trends are affecting business today, Norbert Brandt, market manager for the co-op said, including a decrease in farm numbers, larger farms and production required to specifications.

Outagamie County had 1,190 farms producing pigs in 1954. By 1959 this number had dropped to 1,076. Winnebago County, in 1954, had 894 farms producing pigs. By 1959 the number dropped to 731. Feeder pigs coming to the co-op, Brandt said, are from 25 per cent of members. Of the co-op's nearly 4,130 members, 21 per cent have never shipped a pig since they joined. One of the reasons for the decrease in pig shipments was the necessity for more capital and time to carry on a successful dairy project. Milk regulations have become stricter, Brandt said, and pigs no longer can live in the barn with dairy cattle. Rather than provide time and housing, farmers are dropping pigs.

Increase Size

Those making up their mind to stay in farming will increase the size of their operations. Men raising feeder pigs also will increase their sow numbers to about 30. In Iowa, Brandt said, nine-sow units are producing 22,000,000 pigs a year to Wisconsin's 3,000,000. Iowa has more farm units of less size than Wisconsin.

The third trend, requiring pigs to specification, will be based on quality and quantity. Quality will be necessary to meet southern competition for the market, he said. Cotton and peanut acreage in the south has been decreased. Pigs have taken their place.

Farmers will be required to provide more pigs during February, March, April and May when prices are best and pigs are scarce. During a high demand time only 2,500 to 2,700 pigs are shipped a week by the co-op. During a low demand period farmers have close to 7,000 pigs a week to ship.

Gives Examples

The cooperative, Brandt said, could handle 20 times its present pig volume now and not be taxed in trying to sell them.

Artificial breeding of good sows with proven boars can mean more pigs per litter, heavier birth weights and earlier marketing, because the pig will require less feed, less labor and less housing cost.

A better rate of gain example was performed by Brandt. A pig that gains 1.1 pound per day will take 154 days to get from 40 pounds to 210 pounds. If the pig gains 1.8 pounds a day it will take but 95 days to gain 170 pounds.

Pigs that are good eaters, Brandt said, will cost the farmer less. Figuring 170 pounds of gain at 3 cents a pound for feed it would cost $20.40 to get a pig eating four pounds of feed a day to 210 pounds and $17.85 to get a pig eating 3.5 pounds of feed a day to get 210 pounds. The savings with the light eater would mean $310 in a 200 pig herd.

Brandt listed three guides for pig raisers to follow to obtain better quantity and quality pigs: Use boars and gilts of known genetic quality with breeding certification programs, a testing station and on the farm testing; set up and follow a breeding program with purebreds, two-breed cross and three-breed cross, and periodic sampling of pigs by feeding out test pigs at home and entering carcass content shows.

Discussion Meetings

Segregation will be the first topic to be discussed by Calumet County Young People Farm Bureau at their monthly meetings. A skating party was held Feb. 1 at an ice rink in Kaukauna.

Adult Farmer Class Holds Family Night

AMHERST — The Amherst Adult Farmer Class held its annual Family night Tuesday in the lunch room at Amherst High School.

The class is made up of interested farmers in the area. The topics discussed during the season were dairy cattle feeding, management and electricity.

Conservation Unit To Meet Monday On Needs Report

Members of the Outagamie County Soil and Water Conservation Needs Committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the courthouse, Appleton, to plan a county conservation needs report.

Working on the committee are Vern Geiger, SCS planner; Ronald Herman, forester; Robert Wilms, FHA manager; Russell Luckow, farm and home development agent; Joseph Rickert, ASC office manager; Harold Steinke, game manager, Donald Niendorf erosion control agent.

John E. Powers, county agent; Harold Schmeichel, agriculture committee, county board; Courtney Schwartz, 4-H club agent; Randolph Briggs, area conservationist, and Gordon Eubolz, representing city interests.

The committee is attempting to prepare a report of needs of rural people and expected progress in the county by 1975.

State Farm Bureau Adds New Employee

MADISON — The Wisconsin Farm Bureau has added Lawrence A. Rens to its staff.

Rens is currently completing his work toward the doctorate degree in agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin. He will head up the newly established department of marketing set up by the Farm Bureau.

He will work to set up an affiliate organization for Farm Bureau that will try to build marketing and bargaining power for farmers, according to Percy Hardiman, president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau.

Man Increases Farm's Value

In 1960 the cattle were fed in a dry lot with stored feed. In 1958 and 1959 green feed was used. Self feeders are used for feeding grain to both hogs and beef cattle. Conradt constructed the self feeders himself.

Crop Plans

His farm, last year, was cropped with 85 acres of oats, 175 acres corn and 125 acres hay. There also is a 35-acre woodlot in one corner of his spread. In 1960 the entire farm was soil tested. Corn is fertilized according to recommendations, hay land top dressed and grain fertilized where low fertility is evident. Each field is manured every four years.

Besides farming, Conradt is a Soil Conservation Service cooperator. Some 3,000 feet of tile and 4,000 feet of surface drainage will be incorporated into the farm this year. There also is a half-mile of ditching used for drainage of crop land.

Many Purchases

Maintenance of a large farm has meant purchase of many new pieces of machinery. Conradt estimated he spent from $5,000 to $6,000 a year over the last eight years to improve his enterprise. This included five tractors, portable feed grinder and mixer.

He started as a partner with his father and now operates the farm himself. He is married and has three children.

Besides maintaining the farm he is a member of Northeastern Wisconsin Farm Management Association; Outagamie County State and National Holstein Breeders Association, president of Shiocton Dairy Products Cooperative, a board member of Shiocton Community Club and Center Valley Cooperative.

How to get extra milk every day
for only 1 1/2¢ per cow

Feed Land O'Lakes Milk Maker "36" daily. It costs only about 1 1/2¢ more per cow than your present daily feed costs, because you replace grain with Milk Maker "36". And at today's prices, the cost of a pound of Milk Maker "36" is only about 1 1/2¢ more than a pound of grain.

You'll get extra milk every day because Milk Maker "36" contains the protein and other nutrients that are missing from normal rations of grains and roughage. Not only is this feed protein-rich itself, but it also contains sulphur to help your cow make even more protein from urea. The extra milk you'll get pays you back several times over. You'll make more money.

Better stop in to see us tomorrow. We'll help you get started on the Milk Maker "36" program so you can get extra milk every day for only 1 1/2¢ more per cow.

Waupaca Names Award Winners

22 Farm Families Finalists In County Bankers Program

WAUPACA — The township willing to give their time to help winners of the 1960 Bankers Awards Program were announced today by Ned Nehring, Marion, Waupaca County Bankers Association president.

The Waupaca County Farm Improvement Association members, in charge of the judging, have expended nearly 100 man days of work to select the 22 farm families. Nehring and John Nimlos, Soil Conservationist, said they are grateful that farmers are so

The township winners were selected on the basis of their soil conservation program, crop and livestock management, community service and family living. The winning farm family will be selected from a final list of five or six nominees from each township.

Commends Families
County Agent Joe Walker commended the 22 farm families. The stories written by the judges indicate that a very progressive group of farmers were selected as winners, he said.

The committee of past county winners selected a group of five or six township winners who were recommended for county winner. The past county winners will then meet with the Soil Conservation

District Supervisors or Agricultural Committee to select the first and second place county winner. The Bankers Award Program will be held Feb. 21 at Marion, Victor Miller, St. Nazianz bank.

Banker Award List Narrows to 5 Farmers

The number of candidates for the first place and runner-up award of the Waupaca County Bankers Association was narrowed to five during a meeting in the office of John Nimlos, Soil Conservationist.

The County Agriculture committee will name the winner and runner-up from the five remaining candidates during a meeting at Manawa. Presentation of the award and the announcement of the winner will be made public during the farm dinner of the bankers association during the annual program Feb. 21 at Marion.

er, lawyer and business man will be the speaker.

The following 22 farm families were selected as township winners for the 1960 Bankers Award:

ment, farm organization and family living.

Judging will be conducted in four general categories, including land use, crops, livestock management and family living. Each division is given a numerical rating.

Land use includes soil conservation planning, erosion control or drainage, rotation, renovated pasture, fenced woodlot, tree planting and wildlife area. Crops data covers date of last soil test, fertilizer program, crop acreage, cattle feeding and costs. Farmers also will be asked what programs they have initiated to hold feed costs down and if they are under an ASC program.

Stock Management

Livestock management is equal to conservation in importance, John Powers, county agent, said. Farmers will be required to give numbers and breed of cattle, DHIA records if any, hogs if any or poultry if any.

The family living phase of judging includes farm and home records, family garden, food preservation, church and community activities, youth activities, hobbies and wife's activities.

Township contestants are:
DALE — Joe Neuman, Nolan Pristler and William and Ernest Meyer.
CICERO — Joseph Kasperek, Jack Rubin and Harlan Barth.

DEER CREEK — Martin Dempsey, Dale Olson and Karl Nielsen.
HORTONIA — Norman Hanson, Eldor Gruetzmacher and Gilbert Laabs.

MAPLE CREEK — Warren Garske, Alfred Korth and Russell Cartwright.

Farm Leaders Given Look at Heart Report

Study Needed on Danger of Fats in Diet in Dairy Foods

Farm leaders were given a candid look here at a recent American Heart Association report concerning fats in the diet. The report of last Dec. 10 suggested that too much milk, as well as meat and chocolate, might be harmful to some people. It indicated that substituting unsaturated vegetable oils, such as corn, soybean and cottonseed, might reduce the risk of hardening of the arteries.

So should they sell the cows and raise soybeans?

Industry Cooperate

Not yet, dairy farmers were advised by Arnie Van Thullenar, merchandising director of the American Dairy Association.

In the first place, Van Thullenar pointed out, the AHA report dealt in the realm of speculation rather than fact. And in the second, the scientists indicated that the problem is largely a matter of over-eating.

"The dairy industry must cooperate wholeheartedly with medical and health authorities in further research," Van Thullenar emphasized.

"At the same time," he added, "health authorities should keep the situation in proper perspective and exert strong effort to avoid any attempts to mislead the public."

The ADA official spoke at a district meeting of Farm Bureau dairy committees at which 80 men and women from 14 counties were present.

Bear Brunt

Van Thullenar speculated that dairy products might have to bear the brunt of any dietary changes, although meat also was cited in the report.

"The promotional effort of oleo margarine manufacturers has been heading toward capitalizing on this recommendation to switch

Justice Gives Man Alternate—Travel

WAUPACA — Elmer Monson, 43, Minneapolis, Minn., pleaded guilty of drunkenness Thursday morning. He appeared before Police Justice George Whalen. Monson was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail, but the sentence stayed on the stipulation that Monson take the next bus out of Waupaca. Monson accepted the alternate.

fats. Oleo certainly will be given additional emphasis, adding to problems in selling butter." Efforts should be made, he stressed, to get out all of the facts. There is yet no real evidence, he said, but only a suspicion, that dairy fats contribute to heart ailments.

Fat Necessary

"Some fat is necessary in the human diet. But questions have not been answered in the area of how much fat is needed, and whether certain types of fat are less desirable than others," Van Thullenar noted.

He stressed that the AHA did not call for complete elimination of animal fats from the diet. The suggestion was for a reduction in total fat intake and substituting unsaturated fats for part of the saturated fats now consumed.

"The problem, it appears, may not be a matter of getting more research under way, but rather one of working with the many groups now financing and directing research," Van Thullenar concluded.

Hog House Heating Cost Can be Cut

Experimental Model Has Expansive Area Of Double Glass

Wisconsin farmers can cut down on winter heating costs in hog farrowing houses by increasing the glass area on the south side. Double-pane glass lets the sun in and keeps the cold out.

University of Wisconsin farm engineers built a special hog farrowing house at the LaCrosse Experiment Station several years ago to test the effects of added window area. About one square foot of double-pane window glass to every six square feet of floor space let enough sun in to keep the farrowing house warm on the most winter days. The windows were on the south wall to get the advantage of winter sun.

The test house had four to five times more window area than most farrowing houses. Supplemental heat was needed at night and on cloudy days. Even on hazy days the windows help, because some solar heat reaches the earth all the time.

Used Concrete Blocks

were filled with insulation. Heat loss is one quarter what it would be with sand and gravel blocks. Large overhanging eaves on the south side were just high enough to let the sun in during the winter when it is low in the sky, but to keep it out during the hot summer months when the sun is overhead.

Pressurized ventilation keeps the moisture level down. Air comes in from the south side, runs between the roof and ceiling for preheating and then is diffused along the north side. Increased glass area also increases heat losses at night. But the losses aren't great enough to offset the benefits of solar heating during the day, the researchers say.

The solar hog house also makes use of hog operated doors, so the sows have free access to a pen outside. The doors and pens with the farrowing house warm on self-feeders are all on the south side. This makes it possible to have a narrow farrowing house with a single row of pens.

Propose Plan To Identify State Calves

Blue Tag Program Coming Up Again In Legislature

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Dairy interests are again asking the legislature to set up a dairy calf identification program to protect the integrity of Wisconsin breeder stock in the national calf market.

Legislation is pending that would authorize a voluntary identification program under which producers would identify two classes of heifer calves.

A blue tag would be used to identify calves that have purebred ancestry.

Purpose would be to prevent the sale in other parts of the country for breeding stock of heifer calves sold by Wisconsin farmers as veal. A similar bill was adopted by the legislature two years ago on a compulsory basis, but was later suspended.

Assemblyman Cletus VanderPerren of rural Brown county, a dairy farmer, is one of the main backers of the bill in the current legislature. He was also one of the sponsors of the 1959 enactment.

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau

Federation and other producer representatives have told legislators that they are supporting the legislation.

Wisconsin with its immense milking herd of cattle is one of the prime sources of heifer calves in the country. The export of young stock is one of the principal supplementary income sources of Wisconsin agriculture.

New Contract for '61 Beet Growers Get

growers association and the sugar company hinges entirely on the amount of acreage which growers within the specified radius will contract. To qualify for an equal share of the returns brought in through the sale of beet by products—molasses and beet pulp—as well as half of the sugar sale proceeds, area growers must contract 6,000 or more acres. Last year 5,400 acres were contracted in the area specified.

If acreage requirements are met, growers within the 38-mile radius will be required to assume the cost of transporting the beets to the processing plant. Previously growers paid for their transportation from the fields to beet dumps scattered throughout the area. The processing company was responsible for transportation of beets from the dumps to the Green Bay plant. The dumps were maintained by the company.

Abandon Dumps

Both bargaining factions favored the new plan. Trucks will take the beets directly from the fields to the plant thus speeding up transportation and enabling the processing to be carried out with a greater degree of efficiency. The antiquated dumps, some of which are more than a half-century old, will be abandoned within the radius.

Growers outside of the specified area only will share in returns from the sale of beet sugar. The company, however, will transport growers' beets to the plant. An incentive plan for increased acreage and improved growing methods has long been a part of the contract between growers and the company.

If the aforementioned acreage requirement is met by nearby growers, the growers outside of the radius will be given a 30,000-ton incentive goal. Under the terms of the new contract, grower and processor will split on a 50-50 basis the sale returns of sugar produced from all outside beets up to 30,000 tons. If the outside growers deliver more than that amount, they will receive 55 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of sugar derived from the tonnage over 30,000 and 50 per cent of the remainder.

Farmers Get Higher Price For Products

MADISON (AP)—An increase in the general level of prices received by farmers marked the start of 1961, the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service noted today.

The Wisconsin index of prices received in January was up 9 per cent from a year ago and the highest for the month since 1954, the department said.

The index of prices paid by farmers shows a slight gain over a year ago and is equal to the record for the month set in 1959.

Contributing to the rise in the level of prices received are increases of nearly 7 per cent for milk, 17 per cent for meat animals and 38 per cent for eggs. Crop prices as a whole showed no change from a year ago and poultry prices are off 3 per cent.

Prices received for milk sold by farmers in January averaged $3.70 a hundred pounds of milk of average test. This price shows about the usual seasonal drop from December but is up 24 cents from the January 1960 average and the highest for the month since 1953. While ahead of January last year, the index of meat animal prices is below January 1959, the department added.

Automatic renewal of last year's contract will be effected if growers within the 38-mile radius fail to meet the 6,000 acre minimum.

Terms of the 1960 pact, which then would include all state growers, set the incentive mark at 85,000 tons. For all beets up to that amount the grower and processor will divide the sugar sale returns. Growers will receive 55 per cent of sugar profits for beets between 85,000 and 110,000 tons and 60 per cent of the returns from the sale of sugar derived from beets in excess of 110,000 tons.

Retain Proceeds

The company would then retain the proceeds from by-product sale but would also continue to transport the beets.

Walter Page, president of the Menominee Sugar Co., was that firm's only representative at the talks with the grower association's board of directors.

Henry Heimann, Chilton, president of the association, presided at the negotiations in his first official function since suffering near fatal injuries Nov. 25.

Make Sure That Dwarf Apple Tree Is Really Dwarf

If you buy a dwarf apple tree for your back yard, make sure it's really "dwarf."

George Klingbeil, University of Wisconsin horticulturist, says the word dwarf is now commonly used for trees and could mean anything from a true dwarf to trees that may become larger than standard trees.

Purchase the tree only from a nursery that lists the specific kind of dwarf. The true dwarf is a regular apple grown on "classified rootstocks" to get the dwarf characteristics.

He recommends for home gardeners the root stock that gives the most dwarfing at maturity. This rootstock is classified EM IX (East Malling IX). These trees are usually about eight feet tall with a spread of about eight to ten feet at maturity. They begin bearing the second or third year and produce larger and better colored fruit than the same variety on standard rootstocks.

Klingbeil points out that the tree is brittle and weak rooted. It must be staked or tied to a wire trellis. Golden and Red Delicious and McIntosh are best on EM IX although several other varieties are available.
